FIGHT ON POOL HALL
MEASURE EXPECTED

Opponents Say McLendon Paper Would Force Establishments Out of Business.

Although Councilman W. E. Saunders, of the twelfth ward, plans to submit his resignation to city council this morning as a result of his conviction by a jury on charges of bribery, Alderman G. Everett Millican announced Sunday night that he intended to offer his resolution to impeach Saunders just the same.

"I am taking the same position in this case that I have taken in the others," Mr. Millican said. "I think he ought to be tried by a councilmanic committee and either thrown out of office as unfit to sit in council or have council approve him after hearing the evidence against him.

"If a member of council has been guilty of violating his oath of office,"
the alderman added, "that ought to be found as a fact by general council, and when so found, there are only two courses open. Saunders' announcement that he intends to offer
his resignation Monday will not alter my plans in the slightest. When he places it before council I shall offer a substitute resolution calling for the impeachment trial.

Intends to Resign.
Saunders said Sunday night that he was at a loss to understand why there had been any speculation over the course he will pursue. "I have said all along," he explained, "that if I was found guilty by a jury I would tender my resignation to council and that is what I intend to do Monday."

Mr. Millican offered a resolution to impeach Harry York, when that councilman was convicted, but there were only a few votes gained to support it. When he offered his resolution to impeach Walter Taylor, city clerk, who was convicted by a jury of bribery, the vote was 14 for impeachment and 21 against it. It is believed, Millican said Sunday, that the impeachment forces will gain more votes on the resolution to try Saunders.

The Millican resolution proposing impeachment of Councilman Saunders will differ from the one previously aimed at Walter Taylor in that it will set forth the three counts in the bill on which Saunders was convicted.

Alderman Alvin Richards, of the thirteenth ward, Sunday night announced, as on previous resolutions to impeach convicted officials, he would support the Millican resolution.

Saunders is a candidate for renomination in the primary to be held Wednesday and is appealing to twelfth ward voters to return him with a vote of vindication.

When charges of impeachment are lodged against a city official, he becomes a permanent record and may be called up for action at the pleasure of any member of council.

Council's Position.
Parliamentary-minded observers
about the city hall are pointing out that if Saunders is returned to council in the primary, and his conviction upheld in the high court, council would be in the same position that the United States senate was when Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, was renominated to the senate after it had rejected him as an appointee of the Illinois governor. The analogy is that council, even if it fails to act today on the impeachment resolution, may be called upon to reject Saunders
because of his conviction in the courts should he be successful in Wednesday's primary.

While the fight on the Millican
resolution is expected to engage major interest in today's council meeting, set for 2 o'clock, a sharp fight is anticipated over an ordinance proposed by Councilman W. Chester Mc-Lendon, of the second ward, to make such stringent rules regulating the operation of pool rooms and billiard carriers as to virtually force them out of business—according to opponents of the resolution.

The resolution would confine the business of a pool room to the operation of the tables exclusively and permit only those actually engaged in playing or employees in the establishment.

Homes Beautiful
Draw Big Crowds

Thousands Inspect Avondale Houses Despite Threatening Weather
for Opening of Exhibit.

Great crowds flocked to Avondale Saturday afternoon for the opening of the home beautiful exhibit sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution in co-operation with a number of the city's leading merchants and business establishments.

And the crowds were out despite an overhanging threat of a downpour all the afternoon. True the downpour never came, but there were several showers of more or less intensity, which failed to dull in the least interest in the exhibits.

There are two houses in the exhibit, one at No. 2 Clarendon place and the other at 32 Dartmouth avenue. That on Clarendon is built along Tudor English lines and the one on Dartmouth is of Spanish design.

Both of the houses are ultra modern and complete in every sense of the word. Practically every convenience and refinement incorporated in the residences of today are to be found in these houses.

From the front to the back of both of them, it would be difficult to find room for improvement for houses of the type of these. Nothing has been left undone that would add to their attractiveness, comfort, and convenience.

From the time the places opened early in the afternoon the rooms and halls inside were fairly jammed with men, women and children. And they kept coming throughout the afternoon and evening.

At night the houses present an unusually beautiful appearance. Flood lights have been arranged in the yards
so as to play their rays on the two buildings, and nestled in the trees as they are the lights and shadows combine to add beauty to the setting.

Automobiles were parked for blocks
in every direction from the houses throughout most of the afternoon and night, but serious traffic jams were avoided by the numerous avenues of approach, several streets converging
at the location of the English house, which is the feature in the exhibit.

Many favorable comments were heard concerning the various features of the houses. They both include many built-in features such as cabinets, cupboards, bookcases, chests of drawers and some other conveniences
to concern the women most of all,
many closets.

Attracting as much attention as the houses themselves were the decorations and furnishings in them. Rich supplies the furniture and draperies, and they were installed under the supervision of W. Phillip Brown, interior decorator for the stores.

Among the other merchants co-operating were Frigidaire Sales Corporation, furnishing Frigidaire for both houses; Georgia Power Company, electric stores and appliances;
Grant-Harris-Ripley Company, a Ford town sedan for the English house, and a Ford sport coupe for the Spanish; Phillips & Crew, baby grand piano, and Blinder's supplied the pictures and pottery.

G. F. Willis, owner and developer of Avondale Estates, which is considered one of the outstanding residential developments in the south,
was highly pleased with the results of the opening day and feels confident that the crowds will increase throughout the extent of the exhibit.

The houses will be kept open for entertaining from 10 o'clock Sunday June 22, and from the number of inquiries received at The Constitution,
it is believed that many, who would have gone otherwise, stayed away because of the weather Sunday.

Mrs. French To Seek Liberty on Bond Today

Further efforts will be made today by counsel for Mrs. Peggy French to obtain bond of $12,000 required for her release pending perfection and disposal of a motion for a new trial for the woman who last Friday was convicted of what the prosecution characterized as the "death-trap murder" of John S. Garmon, night dispatcher of the Southern railway.

Sentenced to serve from 8 to 12 years in state prison for the killing of Garmon in her home here early on the morning of February 11, Mrs.
French remained in Fulton county jail
over the week-end, efforts of her friends and attorneys to obtain the required bail security having proved unavailing.

William Schley Howard and James
A. Branch, counsel for the convicted woman, have noted their intention to move for a new trial, and Mrs.
French, upon hearing the sentence as fixed by the jury, expressed her confidence that eventually she will be "vindicated."

PHILIP M. ESSIG
DIES SUDDENLY

Prominent Atlanta Merchant Was National Authority on Hunting Dogs

Philip M. Essig, one of Atlanta's best-known merchants, died suddenly shortly after noon Sunday at his home, 905 Park Way drive.

Death was due to a heart attack which followed a light case of indigestion. Saying that he felt slightly indisposed Mr. Essig had gone to bed. His wife, who was sitting beside him, noticed that he had lapsed into unconsciousness. Physicians were hurriedly summoned but he died in a few minutes and before medical assistance arrived.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until after the arrival in the city of his daughter, Miss Caroline H.
Essig, from Miami, Fla., and his son, Philip M. Essig, Jr., a sophomore at Harvard.

Born in Natchez, Miss., 62 years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Essig, Mr. Essig moved to Atlanta while still a young man and with his brother, Chris, established the firm of Essig Brothers at 20 Whitehall street. At the time of his death he was proprietor of the boys' and children's department at Keely's in addition to his prominence in the city's commercial circles. Mr. Essig was a past exalted ruler of the local lodge of Elks and was known throughout the country as a national authority on the breed.

He was a member of the Piedmont lodge, R. A. M.

Noted as an authority on bird dogs, Mr. Essig officiated as judge of field trials in many sections of the country. He was especially devoted to the English setters and established a strain of these dogs which is recognized as producing a large proportion of today's leaders in field trials and shooting dog events.
Although strictly an amateur, many of his dogs became famous and stand out as among the greatest sires and matrons in shooting dog history.

Surviving him are his wife, who formerly was Miss Lillian Hall, of Chicago; a daughter, Miss Caroline
H. Essig, of Miami; a son, Philip M.
Essig, Jr., and his brother, Chris.
His mother, who had made her home with him here, died a little less than a year ago.

Funeral arrangements will be in charge of H. M. Patterson & Son and the services will be conducted by Rev.
Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a member.

OFFICIAL DENIES LOPESCU RETURN

Rumanian Official Announces Carol's Former Lover Will Not Return.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 15.
(P)—Denial that Mme. Magda Lupescu, companion of King Carol II
when he was only a prince in exile,
has any intention of returning here for the present, was issued by a high official today.

The statement said the report that Mme. Lupescu was hurrying here to prevent a reconciliation between Carol and his divorced wife, Queen Helen,
had originated with newspaper correspondents here and at Budapest. Hungary. One rumor was that she would be made one of Queen Helen's ladies of honor, and another credited Mme.
Lupescu with planning the coup which brought Carol home from exile.

The statement said that the Rumanian
officials were surprised when a newspaperman and photographer boarded her car attached to the "Friedmann" Limited train as it passed in Atlanta Sunday afternoon. Mrs. McDonnell at first declared she would not grant an interview. She explained that she had been consistently refused to talk, either going or coming or while in France, and had even more emphatically refused to be photographed.

"But maybe your story will make other Gold Star mothers more anxious to go," interposed F. L. Nelson, enterprising passenger agent of the Atlanta & West Point railroad, who was acting under instructions from his company, met the train to see that Mrs. McDonnell's wants were fully looked after.

COURT TO DECIDE
REGISTRATION ROW
WHILE JURY ACTS

Walter Taylor To Answer
Two Writs as Jurors Probe List-Fraud
Charges Today.

Disposal of at least some of the four major issues that have resulted from charges of irregularities in the manner of handling lists of voters who will cast their ballots in the city
primary Wednesday is expected today
when the following matters come up for judicial and inquisitorial action:

1. Walter C. Taylor, city clerk convicted of bribery, will appear before Judge John D. Humphries today, bringing with him an answer to a writ of duces tecum all voters' registration records for scrutiny by the Fulton county grand jury.

2. Taylor also will appear before Judge Humphries in another action brought by Philip Rosenbaum, candidate for council from the second ward, who has asked the court to issue a writ of mandamus compelling the city clerk to supply him with an accurate list of registered voters in that ward.

Findings of Committee.
3. The special mayor's committee, composed of five citizens headed by Herbert Cheate, is expected to make public some time during the day its findings in the investigation of charges of discrepancies in the registration lists—having been alleged by Homer C. Foster, ninth ward councilman candidate, that in that area alone 177 discrepancies existed in the list.

4. The grand jury generally is expected to decide immediately on the widespread charges of pre-election in-regularities and frauds, and while Solicitor-General John A. Boykin has declined to divulge whether the investigating body already has indictments in its hands for consideration, it was known that the jurors will go seriously into the allegations of fraudulent manipulation of the voters' lists.

In issuing the writ of duces tecum,
which is an order commanding the city clerk to produce the lists, the court is expected to order the registration records, the investigation by the grand jury of alleged irregularities will be augmented by the availability of all lists involved in the pre-election controversy. These records will simply be turned over to the grand jury for that body's consideration, and, inasmuch as there is little time intervening before the primary,
it is expected that the jurymen will dispose of that question at the earliest possible moment.

Rosenbaum Action.
The Rosenbaum action against the retiring city clerk is a separate legal effort requiring Taylor to appear before Judge Humphries and show cause why he should not be compelled to furnish the second ward candidate
with a checked list of registered voters. Mr. Rosenbaum alleges that on June 9 he requested a list of registered voters in the second ward from the city clerk, but that his request was ignored. His opponent, Councilman

CITY CANDIDATES
BEGIN 'CLEAN-UP' ACTIVITIES TODAY

Radio Addresses and Five Rallies Tonight Will Wind Up Campaign for 22 Posts.

Refreshed by rests over the weekend, candidates for city offices in Wednesday's democratic primary will begin their campaign "cleanup" work
this morning. Practically every section of the city has been visited by those offering in the city-wide election, and candidates in ward elections have held meetings of citizens in their various neighborhoods.

Majority candidates will take to the air in the last moment presentation of their cases to the voters. Tonight, the office seekers will be given three opportunities of addressing ward gatherings.

At 8 o'clock tonight, Alderman Ben T. Huie, majority candidate, will hold a meeting at Bass Junior High school. At 7:30 o'clock there will be a meeting at the Georgia Avenue school under auspices of the Second Ward Improvement Club, at 8 o'clock at Kirkwood school under auspices of Councilman W. E. Saunders, of the twelfth ward, and at 8 o'clock at Morland Avenue school under auspices of Councilman W. Paul Carpenter, of the ninth ward.

Alderman Huie also has announced
a meeting for 7 o'clock Tuesday night at Kennedy and Chestnut streets in the fifth ward.

Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, pastor of the Central Congregational church, will speak over WSB at 10 o'clock tonight in the interest of Councilman Wiley L. Moore, majority candidate.
Moore will speak over WSB at 7:15 o'clock Tuesday morning and at 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

Ex-Mayor James L. Key, candidate for mayor, will speak over WSB at 9:45 o'clock Tuesday night and at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday morning.
Alderman Huie will talk over WGST at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night.
The candidates for mayor and recorder have entered into agreements providing that the high man in each rate shall be those of Alderman or not he receives a majority of the votes. The agreements will eliminate a run-over primary in the event of a tie of a majority in the two races.

JURORS WILL PUSH
GRAFT QUIZ TODAY

Work To Be Rushed To Bring Investigation and Trials to Speedy End.

A double-barreled effort at clearing up the remaining loose ends of the probe of alleged municipal corruption will get under way today and Tuesday by the solicitor-general's office with a view to bringing to an early end the series of investigations and trials resulting from such charges against various members of the city government, several of whom already have been convicted.

Activities of the Fulton county jury, which recovers this morning to proceed with its investigation into bribery and graft allegations, will be thwarted with an additional matter that has crept into the general problem of corruption as a result of one of the recent graft trials—that of embezzlement, which, in legal parlance, describes the offense of jury-tampering.

The grand jury's inquisitorial duty constitutes one of the two tasks before the state. The other is the prosecution, beginning Tuesday, of the trial of Alderman J. E. Turner, accused of bribery in connection with an indictment charging that he accepted $450 and a motor car from a local automobile truck concern for his influence in getting through council the motor company's bid on a city truck purchase deal. This trial is slated to come up for disposal in Judge Virgil E. Moore's division of superior court Tuesday morning, and while Solicitor-General John A. Boykin devotes his entire time this week to assisting the grand jury, his assistant, Ed. A. Stephens, will take charge of the prosecution of Turner.

Other cases on the court docket which are expected to go to trial at an early date are those of Alderman
J. Allen Couch, Bruce Baxter, J. E.
Robinson, Harry Roy and Jack White—the last-named two already convicted and sentenced on bribery charges—and Wiley Melton.

The embezzlement, or jury-tampering, phase of the corruption trials already has been gone into by a grand jury, which has returned true bills against six persons—including three employees in the office of the convicted city clerk—and the first of these trials has been held.

Arrangements for holding the primary are practically complete, according to W. J. Laney, secretary of the democratic executive committee.
Ballots are printed, and managers and clerks have been appointed in all but two wards, and those two wards
will be taken care of today.

There are 46 candidates in the race for 22 municipal posts. In the race for recorder of the second division of police court to succeed M. M. Holloway are: John E. Chambers, Honor C. Denton, John L. Cone and Frank R. Flinn. Incumbent alder-

New York Police
Find Atlanta Man
Amnesia Victim

While his wife was making plans to leave Atlanta to join him in New York city, where they are removing this week, word came from that city
in press dispatches Sunday night telling of the sudden attack of amnesia which deprived John E. Bates, 61, of 1425 Holderness street, S. W., of memory after he had reached that city in a dazed condition.

The elderly man was found Saturday on the steps of an apartment building in East Fifteenth street,
New York, and taken to Bellevue hospital, where efforts of physicians to learn his identity proved unavailing until late Sunday, when he recovered from a comatose state sufficiently to murmur his name and give attaches his Atlanta address. He said he was in the lumber business in Atlanta, but could not explain how he arrived in New York.

Mrs. Bates Sunday night told The Constitution that she had not heard of the condition of her husband until informed by the newspaper. She said she had supposed him to be at Aiken,
S. C., where he had gone on business
some two weeks ago. She said she was making preparations to leave for
New York Tuesday and that she had written her husband at Aiken of her plans.

Her husband suffered an illness
about a month ago, Mrs. Bates said,
but apparently had recovered. She
had not noticed any symptoms of loss
of memory, she declared, since his recovery.

Information from New York Sunday night was that Mr. Bates' condition was not considered serious.

Odds Against Jones
Shortest in History

HOYLAKE, England, June 15.
(UN)—Bobby Jones was the strongest favorite in history tonight to win the British open golf championship.

Since Bobby won the British amateur title, the odds against him also winning the British open have been reduced from 5 to 1 to 2 to 1,
with bookmakers extremely anxious not to take any bets on Jones.

BY FRANK H. KING,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
HOYLAKE, England, June 15.—(P)
Bobby is ready to launch the second phase of his 1930 offensive against British golfing titles tomorrow when the big field of 206 pros and amateurs start play over the Royal Liverpool and Wallasey courses in the classic British open championship. This event was founded in 1860 when the American youngsters of those days were going out to battles of another description.

Jones, who led the American Walker cup team to victory at Sandwich
a month ago, won the big medal competition at Sunningdale and then captured the British amateur title at St.
Andrews, is only one of nearly 300
golfers from a half dozen countries who will tee off tomorrow but the tournament seems to revolve around Jones and his chances.

"Will Be by Wire" is the question everywhere and although the odds against Jones or anybody else coming through against the field ought to be no better than 10 to 1, the best wagers obtainable are at 2 to 1 against Bobby. The Atlanta has been predicting here all week and is in fine golfing form. But so are the other Americans competing, so fine in fact that Leo Delor, captain of the English team, gave Jones and George Von Elm
a 3 and 1 beating in a serious four-ball match at Hoylake one day last week.

On the same afternoon, Cyril Tolley
and Smith beat Jones and Von Elm
5 and 4 with a best ball of 62.

Retains Counsel To Prosecute "Wet, Catholic" Press and Magazines.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(P)—

Scarcely out of the hands of the senate lobby committee, whose efforts to question him on his anti-Smith activities in 1923 have been so far defied, Bishop James Cannon, J. C., has petitioned the senate to pass before judgment the law enforcement commission's measures already approved by the house.

At the same time it was disclosed in a statement distributed from his office that the bishop had engaged counsel to consider the possibility of criminal or civil libel action against
"wet and Roman Catholic publications" which have carried "cartoons, editorials, and alleged news articles" concerning him during the past two years.

"The bishop further announced,"
said the statement, "that it would be his purpose to meet all future publications, as well as those which have already been made, as far as counsel
may consider them proper grounds for action, with due processes of the law. Vicious, cowardly attacks made in the senate and the house of representatives are immune from such prosecution."

The petition for passage of the law enforcement bill, signed by Bishop Cannon, as president of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South,
S. C., where he had gone on business
some two weeks ago. She said she
was making preparations to leave for
New York Tuesday and that she had written her husband at Aiken of her
plans.

Her husband suffered an illness
about a month ago, Mrs. Bates said,
but apparently had recovered. She
had not noticed any symptoms of loss

PRESIDENT SAYS

Measure Contains Inequalities and Is Inequi-

Can Be Remedied.

PRAISES INCLUSION OF COMMISSION

Should Free Country of Revision Necessity for Years To Come and Stabilize Trade, He Says.

BY HERBERT LITTLE,
United News Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Hoover will sign the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, he announced today.

In a 1,000-word statement he announced his intention, citing the measure passed finally by the senate Friday and by the house yesterday as "a response to the 1923 republican platform pledge and his own 1920 message to congress.

Some of the rates will be found too high, and some too low, he said, but these will be remedied under the changed flexible provision as "the outstanding step of this tariff legislation," and to it he devoted more than half of his statement. Tariff commission revisions can be carried out swiftly and without disturbance to business, he said.

The flexible provision authorizes the commission to determine if present rates properly protect American products from competition of foreign products made with cheaper labor and materials, and recommend a change.
The present flexible clause, adopted in 1922, is too circumscribed with limitations to permit efficient action by the president. The present law puts on the president the task of deciding what the new rate should be whereas under the new bill the commission will determine and recommend a rate which the president will have to promulgate or ignore.

Curtailed to Sign.
The bill, started through congress
16 months ago, will be formally signed by Vice President Cullum tomorrow and laid before Mr. Hoover late in the day or perhaps Tuesday. The formal reference of the measure ordinarily would delay signature several days, but in view of Mr. Hoover's statement today he may sign the measure immediately. Of the bill's rates and provisions will go into effect
at midnight following signature. It is understood that Mr. Hoover already has taken up at length the reorganization of the tariff commission
under the changed law.

The president for the first time discussed the bill's rates, which congressional authorities say increase the general level of customs duties by 6.88 percent. Opponents say the actual increase will be nearly 20 percent, and assert that when the increased prices of both domestic and foreign goods affected are passed on to the consumer the result will justify their accusing it of "a billion-dollar grundy bill."

Mr. Hoover discussed the rates from other angles than this. He cited tariff commission figures saying that 93 percent of the increases are "upon products of agricultural origin meaning increases in value." Of the total of 2,300 items now taxed, he said, 800 were increased, 235 decreased, and 2,170 left unchanged. As compared with this increase in value, he said, the 1922 Fordney-McCumber act increased 83 percent of the items.

Farmers' Interest.
"The increases in tariff are largely directed to the interest of the farmer," he said. He also noted that the duties now collected approximately 13.3 percent of the value of all imports, and under the new bill will be 16 percent. Sixty-one to 63 percent of imports will be free of duty, he said.

Taking up the flexible provision,

Jersey Race Draws Interest As Wets and Drys Combat

All Hands Hope for Clean-Cut Decision for One Side or the Other in Primary.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—Congress as a congregation of political leaders from every district in the country, watches the outstanding primary of the coming week with an intensity that marks it as a national political event of the first rank. The country-wide extent of interest in the New Jersey senatorial primary on Tuesday is indicated by the fact that Washington today is practically depopulated of Washington correspondents for out-of-town newspapers. Nine-tenths of them are in New Jersey reporting the primary for newspaper audiences in every state. The interest in the event lies in the betting that the outcome will have on prohibition in the nation. The New Jersey senatorial primary will determine whether the republican party in New Jersey is wet. That New Jersey as a state is wet has long been accepted by drys all over the country, and by all political leaders. They have gone on the assumption, however, that the bulk of the wets in New Jersey are segregated within the democratic party. They have regarded the wetness of New Jersey, together with other large eastern states, as solely a problem of the national democracy because of the cleaving contrast with the dryness of the democratic south. If it should now turn out that a majority of the republican party in New Jersey is also wet, that fact would work a fundamental modification of current political thinking. That it would augur some degree of changed alignment in the country is generally anticipated. If the republicans of New Jersey show a wet majority, members of congress and local political leaders in other sections of the country will take that development into account as having a bearing on them and on the future of prohibition. Others Affected. Particularly will this be true in respect to Massachusetts and New York together with perhaps other states where there is a large wet sentiment but where as yet the republican party has not gone definitely to wet side. That the New Jersey result will have a sympathetic effect in the states named, and in some others, is the judgment of political leaders and candidates for national office in states subject to this psychological infection. That the New Jersey republicans will have gone wet will be most conclusively accepted if the winner of the Tuesday primary should be Ambassador Dwight Morrow. He, according to common judgment, has the better chance of the two candidates who oppose prohibition. Even, however, if Mr. Morrow should lose, the New Jersey republicans will still have gone wet if the aggregate of the vote for the two wet candidates is a majority of the whole. On the other hand, if the one dry candidate, Franklin Fort, should win, and especially if he should have close to a majority of the whole vote, that outcome would stiffen the spirits of drys both throughout the wavering east and throughout the country. Political leaders in congress rather hope the New Jersey outcome as between dry and wet will be definite and unclouded by any qualifying considerations. One qualifying factor is the possibility that some dry republicans may vote for Morrow because of his all-around eminence. Another is that democratic leaders may marshal their own followers in the republican primaries and swell the vote for one candidate or another for purposes of their own. The judgment of Washington newspaper correspondents now on the scene in New Jersey is that these factors will not operate to any decisive extent. Washington expects the outcome to be interpreted as a clear-cut decision between wet and dry. Fundamental Need. Another phase of the New Jersey primary has thoughtful consideration from persons who give attention to a fundamental national need. Whatever the outcome, the republican party will have taken a step in the direction of bettering the quality of the senate. The common judgment is that both Mr. Morrow and the dry candidate, Congressman Fort, have better chances to win than the third candidate. Victory for either of these two would mean an initial step by the republicans toward supplying what many serious persons regard as the greatest present need in American government, namely, elevation of the dignity and ability of the senate. The greatness of this need has been realized for some time by close observers. It is realized within the senate, with hope by senators who wish for betterment, and with apprehensive trepidation by those who fear change. In the house of representatives, where Mr. Fort now serves, and in Washington circles generally, it is equally well understood that Mr. Fort similarly would bring to the senate the stimulating effect of a strong personality, the highest possible character and, on the whole, perhaps one of the three or four most clear and powerful minds now functioning in the house. Members of the house, familiar with Fort's parliamentary experience in their own body and having toward the senate a disdain acquired by close observation, would take a good deal of pleasure in watching the effect Fort would have upon the senate. The house thinks of the senate as running riot with the pettiness of personal and political motives, and they think Fort would be a contribution to the better quality of the third estate and to its more orderly functioning.

CHICAGO MOVES TO CLEAN UP POLICE

Mayor, Aroused at Last, Is Expected To Get New Officials.

CHICAGO, June 15.—(P)—Chicago's hopes for decisive action against crime tonight rested with the political and civic leaders who will assemble tomorrow to devise plans for combating gang lawlessness. Spurred by the wave of public indignation that has engulfed the city since the slaying of Alfred J. Lingie, Tribune reporter, Mayor William Hale Thompson, long reticent, was reported authoritatively to have called a meeting of his advisory cabinet for tomorrow.

The mayor has summoned his administration wheel horses—County Treasurer George F. Harding, Cook County Republican Committee Chairman Bernard W. Snow, Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Etelson and Eugene R. Pike—to consider the removal of Police Commissioner William F. Russell and Detective Chief John Stege, who have been under fire.

At the same time the executive committee, senior council and directorate of the Association of Commerce will meet to consider the removal of the police department. The association has selected for its members the business and professional ranks, to "demand a showdown from the people responsible for continuing the gangs in power."

Colonel Robert L. Randolph, president of the association, said the confidence of the public in the police department has been broken down by law and order and would develop measures to maintain government and protect citizens.

Alderman Arthur F. Albert, announced today that if the mayor and his unofficial cabinet appointed successors to Russell and Stege he would contest the move on the grounds of nonfeasance and malfeasance. He made only in co-operation with and by consent of the city council.

The alderman said he would introduce a resolution to the city council Wednesday demanding a thorough investigation of the police department by a committee composed of aldermen and civil service commissioners, regardless of developments in the Lingie case. Albert said the resolution would also recommend the naming of Captain Thomas Condon and Captain James Allman as police commissioner and detective chief, respectively. Alderman Albert, attorney for the city council police committee, also said he would question Commissioner Russell about the existence of gang syndicates, the progress of the department, the progress of the slayings and his plans for the future conduct of the department, when he appears before that body tomorrow. Meanwhile, no clues toward the identity or motive of the assassin who shot down Lingie last Monday were forthcoming.

Salvation Army Makes Plea for Old Clothing

An appeal for old clothing of summer weight which can be sold at rummage sales next week was issued Sunday by Ensign Hugo Bloomberg to meet an emergency faced by the Salvation Army industrial home and social service center due to a shutdown in the market for old newspapers, normally the institution's chief source of revenue. The army will send for old material on phone call to Jackson 2224.

The center has incurred a $2,000 deficit during the first eight months of its fiscal year because of steadily declining prices for the material it collects from homes and salvages for sale. The officer stated. Efforts to overcome this deficit by increased collections seemed to be meeting the situation until markets for the old newspaper closed entirely last week. Winter clothing collected earlier in the season must be kept in reserve for cold weather charity appeals.

Alleged Chicken Thief, Wounded, Is Arrested

A persistent chicken thief who thought he had little to fear from shouted warnings Sunday had occasion to rue his determination. A bullet was the second warning. Early on the Sabbath, A. C. McCoy, of 37 Trinity street, heard a commotion in his henhouse and perceived a blurred silhouette nearby. He sang out a threat and there was a sound of big shoes beating a retreat. McCoy went back to bed.

An hour later he heard raucous manifestations of nervousness from his prize rooster, poked his head out a window and again saw the silhouette. McCoy banged away with his pistol and the big feet again took the silhouette from thither to yon. Strangely enough, about an hour thereafter Jake Buckner, negro, of the rear of 189 East Hunter street,

SENATOR ODDIE COMES TO ADMIRALS' DEFENSE

Nevadan Says Naval Chiefs Know Defense Better Than Anyone Else.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Coming to the defense of the navy admirals who spoke their views against the London treaty, Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada, today issued a statement asserting "they know that the surest way to preserve peace is by maintaining an adequate national defense and they are the most competent authorities in the world on that subject."

Senator Oddie's statement followed closely the recent criticism by Secretary Stimson of the attitude of some "professional warriors" towards the treaty. The Nevada senator warned that "support for the treaty should not be sought by attempts to belittle and break the spirit of these splendid men."

"It should be remembered," he added, "that they are not permitted to answer attacks in the public press."

Meanwhile, the senate foreign relations committee is squaring away for a showdown this week on the London treaty. Chairman Borah, who is confident of overwhelming support for the pact in the committee, has called a special meeting for tomorrow. He will call daily sessions until a vote is taken.

A move is in prospect to defer action pending another attempt to get from President Hoover the secret exchange of notes among the powers leading up to the London parley but the votes are not available in the committee to carry through this program apparently.

Senator Oddie, who is a member of the naval committee, asserted the limitations placed upon cruisers by the treaty "destroy the naval parity which we should have."

"It should be remembered," he continued, "that in the Washington treaty of 1922 our country surrendered its right to fortify certain of its naval bases in the western Pacific in order to establish the original parity. Under the proposed treaty, the position of the United States in this respect has been materially weakened. "The physical, mental and moral standards of the officers of our army and navy are of the highest. No body of men in the world are as carefully selected as they and no men receive a finer and more thorough training. Their lives are at the service of our country at all times and they of all men are most anxious for the establishment of conditions for the preservation of honorable permanent peace."

Grigsby Denounces Radio as 'Trust'

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Charging that the Radio Corporation of America and certain associated companies are "engaged in establishing a monopoly of every phase of the radio art," B. J. Grigsby, chairman of the board of the Grigsby-Grunow Company today announced that his company has resigned as a member of the Radio Manufacturers' Association.

The announcement was made in a formal statement in which Mr. Grigsby also charged that the Radio Corporation of America and "associated companies" are preventing an active stand of the association on issues vital to the radio industry.

Declaring that the United States attorney general has filed a petition asking for a dissolution of the radio trust, Mr. Grigsby said that the Radio Manufacturers' Association takes the position that it cannot do anything which would interfere with the members which he charges are establishing a monopoly.

"The radio industry as organized in the association cannot and does not express its true sentiments nor stand as an industry for the things in which it believes," continued Mr. Grigsby. "We believe the ineptitude on the part of the industry in this crisis is a public catastrophe."

The Radio Manufacturers' Association has a membership of about 250, consisting of manufacturers of radio sets and radio parts.

Big Winner in Street Found Nearly Starved

NEW YORK, June 15.—(UN)—A. P. Choate, believed to have made a fortune in the stock market several years ago, today was seriously ill in Bellevue hospital, victim of starvation and senility.

No explanation was forthcoming of the changed circumstances which reduced the former broker and Princeton man from a life of wealth and ease to a state of seeming penury. He had been living in a midtown rooming house until his condition became so weakened that an ambulance was summoned to take him to the hospital.

Choate at one time was a member of the Canadian Club here but gave up his membership about five years ago. Since then his friends have rarely seen him.

Christopher Cella, proprietor of the rooming house, said that Choate had lived as a recluse, entertaining few visitors. Up to a year and a half ago, Cella said, Choate regularly received checks from a Rochester, N. Y., bank.

Two May Not Live After Bus Accident

JACKSON, Miss., June 15.—(AP)—The burned debris of a parlor bus, the widely separated wheels of a wagon and a wrecked coupe today mark the highway south of here where seven persons were injured last night in a triple collision.

Two of those injured were lying in Jackson hospitals today, perhaps fatally injured. Daine Zillis, 35, of Detroit, is suffering from a fractured skull, a broken rib and a severely cut wrist. His condition is serious. Carle Green, negro, said to have been an occupant of the wagon, has a fractured skull and probably will not recover.

The bus was heading south on the regular Pickwick-Grayhound bus run to New Orleans when it, the wagon and coupe collided as the coupe is thought to have attempted to pass the wagon and then noticed the approaching bus too late.

All of the injured passengers were removed from the bus before it later was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin. Representatives of a casualty company advanced the belief that the bus took fire from a cigarette cast away by a curiosity seeker.

The fire started after 1 o'clock this morning, when the watchman left to come here for a wrecker to remove the huge bus from a small creek.

J. W. Hudgins, DeKalb Leader, Passes Away

J. W. Hudgins, 73, one of DeKalb county's oldest and most widely known citizens, died at his home in Decatur early Sunday following an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Hudgins, a scientific farmer, had lived in DeKalb county since his birth, in 1857. He was a charter member of Midway Presbyterian church for half a century and was a deacon. In 1877 he married Miss Martha Anne Crowley, and to them 11 children were born, nine of whom, with his widow, survive. They are: R. L. Hudgins, Decatur; J. C. Hudgins, Atlanta; Mrs. C. W. Hudgins, Bolton; Stanley S. Hudgins, Bolton; Mrs. H. T. Hill, Decatur; Mrs. J. I. Hudgins, Decatur, and Page Hudgins, Decatur.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Midway Presbyterian church, the Rev. T. P. Bridges officiating. Interment will be in Midway cemetery. A. S. Turner, funeral director, is in charge of arrangements.

Light Showers Seen for Today By Weatherman

Showers, probably light ones and more probably mixed with spells of bright sunshine, are on the weather menu for Monday, according to the official propheta of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The elements threatened a number of times Sunday but never succeeded in doing anything worse to strollers and motorists than to show a delicate variety of gray clouds and send, for a minute or two only, a weak drizzle.

Temperatures Sunday varied between a low of 66 and a high of 82.

Trip to Toccoa Dam Planned for Class

A side trip for the members of the Alpha Class attending their annual picnic at Blaine Ridge on July 4 has been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce of that city to the site of the Toccoa River Power plant dam.

This dam with its penstocks towering more than 150 feet high, has created a lake with a 105-mile shoreline. This side-trip is only a part of the day's program which the north Georgia city is arranging for its visitors.

The time for the departure of the "Alpha Class" special, which will leave from the Union depot, has been changed to 7 a. m. instead of 7:30, as was first published. Members of the class and their friends are urged to make reservation at once.

Police Investigate Negro Youth's Death

Police late Sunday night were investigating the death of Dennis Hewitt, 18-year-old negro, of 1074 West avenue, who was shot and instantly killed, it was said, by one of a group of young white men in an automobile who confronted the negro in front of 220 Fletcher street. One bullet had been fired, which penetrated Hewitt's head. Officers Ratledge, Deller, Whitley and Blair were put on the case.

WOMAN'S SCREAMS FRIGHTEN HOLDUP

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 15.—(AP)—Mrs. O. Levy, wife of the proprietor of a store here, was held up by a negro late Saturday evening who shoved a pistol at her after making a small purchase and was evidently about to make some money demands, when Mrs. Levy screamed so loud that the man fled. Mrs. Levy also fled. Police got a description of the man and are hunting him.

Miami Learns Capone Anxious To Leave City

MIAMI, Fla., June 15.—(AP)—Miami puzzled today over persistent reports that Scarface Al Capone is eager to leave the tropic climate of south Florida, and the legal worries that have attended his stay here since April 20 for the north.

No information was obtainable from the Chicago gang lord or his attorneys. Capone yesterday was unwillingly "in" in a game of in-and-out again with Dade county authorities. He had barely stepped from the courthouse after hearing proceedings in the padlock case, and made sure bond of $14,000 on the four charges. No date has been set for trial.

The charges were made on information filed by County Solicitor McCaskey, and arose from the gangster's chief testimony in a case in which he charged he had been falsely arrested May 8 by Director of Public Safety S. D. McCreary, of Miami. The arrest was the first one made after Miami officials adopted the "Chicago plan" of arresting Capone whenever he was found within the city limits.

Capone had planned to stay here only two weeks when he arrived Easter Sunday, but various items of litigation instituted by Dade county and Miami officials to drive him from the community have prevented.

State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne said he will appeal the padlock case from the circuit court decision of Judge Paul D. Barnes to the supreme court.

CLASS NOT "IN POLITICS"

Charge Denied by James L. Key, Bible Group Head.

Efforts to make it appear that the James L. Key Bible class at Grace Methodist church is "in politics" were rebuked by L. G. Fulton, president, in a brief statement in behalf of former Mayor James L. Key, its teacher, at the session Sunday morning.

"Mr. Key himself has never permitted any allusion to politics to intrude on the purpose of worship and scripture study for which the class was formed," Mr. Fulton said. "With the inspiration he has given it the class has grown steadily through the years and will continue to increase its numbers and service unaffected by any other influence."

Attendance Sunday was reported by Mr. Fulton as 190 with an enrollment slightly in excess of 200.

Mayor K. B. Ferguson To Lecture on India

Major K. B. Ferguson, instructor of modern history and modern languages at the Peacock School for Boys, will lecture on India in the chapter house of St. Philip's Cathedral, 11 Hunter street, at 8 o'clock Friday the night under the auspices of the Young Women's Auxiliary.

Major Ferguson's military service in the royal artillery of the British army, from 1900 to 1922, carried him to various parts of the world. He was stationed in north China, 1904-1906; saw war service, 1914-1915; was mentioned in dispatches for distinguished service in 1916, and later invalided on account of trench fever. He came to the United States on a military mission in 1918 and was engaged in educational work with the Army of the Rhine at the close of the World War; retiring from the army in 1922 after commanding the royal artillery at Mauritius, an island off the southeast coast of Madagascar.

3 times as many Frigidaires are now in use as any other make of electric refrigerator

THIS IS WHY

FRIGIDAIRE is sold with a definite guarantee, backed by General Motors.

And still more important to you as a purchaser is the fact that year after year Frigidaire continues to give satisfaction—long after the guarantee has expired.

If service should be required, it is rendered instantly and without removing the machine from the premises.

All Porcelain-on-steel

Every household Frigidaire is finished inside and out with Porcelain-on-steel. It won't rust, scratch, peel or blister. It is beautiful and stays beautiful always.

Surplus Power

Every Frigidaire has the surplus power to keep food safely cold even on hottest days.

The Famous "Cold Control"

With Frigidaire's surplus power, the "Cold Control" makes possible extra fast freezing of ice cubes or desserts.

Unit at the Bottom

The mechanical unit is in the bottom of the cabinet out of the way. This arrangement provides a flat, usable top and adds to the beauty of the cabinet.

The New Hydrator

Willow vegetables are revived and fresh vegetables stay fresh in the Frigidaire Hydrator. It ends the need for using covered pans or dishes for this purpose.

Elevated Food Shelves

Because the mechanical unit is at the bottom all shelves are conveniently elevated. No stooping is necessary.

Quiet Operation—Always

Recent improvements and refinements make permanently quiet operation one of the outstanding advantages of Frigidaire.

Low First Cost—Low Operating Cost

The economies effected by quantity production make Frigidaire prices low. Operating cost is little because the motor runs only a small part of the time.

PRESIDENT vs. SENATE.

In the matter of the correspondence that President Hoover and his secretary of state had with Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain, and which led up to the London naval conference, there has come a seeming impasse between the president and the senate.

Senator Borah, chairman, and his colleagues on the committee ask the president to submit that correspondence to their scrutiny and consideration. The senate approves the act of the committee. The president refuses to comply. Thereupon arises the question of what the senate committee can do about it?

The constitution says of the president that "he shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided, two-thirds of the senators present concur." From Washington down to Coolidge the common constitutional view has been that the executive negotiates a treaty first and then submit it to the senate for advice as to a modification, or for consent to it or refusal to consent, thereby rejecting it entirely. The "advice and consent" comes after a form of treaty has been agreed upon between this government and another contractor.

If the "advice and consent" is to be sought in advance of the treaty negotiation the power of the president disappears and he becomes only a liaison officer between the senate and the foreign power in the treaty making. That would be an absurd situation. Speaking upon the treaty consenting function of the senate, Calvin Coolidge, on assuming the vice-presidency, said: "To it (the senate) is intrusted the duty of review, that to negotiations there may be added ratification." That exactly and tersely states what the senate has to do with treaties, and when.

President Monroe delineated the proper presidential conduct toward the senate on treaty-making occasions, when he said to that body in a message in 1824:

"I consider it my duty in submitting, for your advice and consent as to a ratification any treaty or convention which has been agreed on with another power, to explain when the occasion requires it, all the reasons which induced the measure. It is by such full and frank explanation only that the senate can be enabled to discharge the high trust reposed in them with advantage to the country. Having the instrument before them, with the views which guided the executive in forming it, the senate will possess all the light necessary to a sound decision."

From the facts thus far known one cannot infer that the president is doing anything unusual or stubborn in refusing to submit his executive correspondence to a senate committee. Presidents have often refused to disclose to congress their executive records when they deemed that to do so would be incompatible with the public interest.

The London naval treaty is before the senate accompanied by the president's views concerning it, and two of the delegates who engaged in its negotiation are in the senate to answer all proper questions relating to it. It is difficult to see how satisfying the curiosity of the foreign relations committee to read what Hoover wrote to MacDonald or vice versa, before any London conference was called into being, would vitally aid the senate in coming to what Monroe termed "a sound decision" to ratify or reject the pact.

On the whole, President Hoover appears to be clearly within his executive rights when he elects to withhold the files of his office from the senate's committee on foreign relations.

AN UNJUST CHARGE.

At the national conference of social work at Boston on Tuesday last President McMahon, of the United Textile Workers of America, made statements which were widely published in the eastern press and which should not be allowed to pass without serious and frank treatment. Speaking of conditions in the textile mills of the southeast, he said:

"Not only have the workers been starved into submission, but the industry is dying in many places for lack of the proper kind of human managerial nourishment."

A statement so absolutely foreign to all known facts should not have obtained credence and currency in a national conference of intelligent and active workers for the social advancement of the people in general. If it is to be accepted as a sample of the labor reform propaganda of President McMahon and his organization, the public need be warned that it is grossly misrepresentative and next to libelous to a greatly growing and closely supervised industry, affected by factors naturally different from those conditioning it in other sections of the nation.

If workers in the textile mills of the south anywhere have "been starved into submission" to the cruel exactions of avaricious and inhuman mill-owners that unconcealable fact has wholly escaped the notice of watchful authorities and humane communities of Christian people.

President McMahon has given publicity to a flagrantly distorted and unjust view of the conditions in which southern mill workers carry on their labors. He can produce no proofs of his sweeping charge and it can only be accepted as that of an agitator bent upon creating discontent, confusion and disarrangements in an industry that is sincerely seeking to establish mutual and satisfying relations between itself and its workers. Neither of them need or want the alien assistance of an unopposed inflamer of the McMahon order.

SIMPLIFYING JUSTICE.

Writing lucidly of the need for uniform state laws in order to facilitate the administration of justice through the courts, Chief Justice Marshall, of the supreme court of Ohio, says that the commission on uniform state laws has been in existence 37 years and has prepared 42 codes on as many different subjects of litigation, but they have met with only an indifferent reception by state legislatures.

It is the opinion of this eminent jurist that "uniform legislation must begin with a more intelligent selection of judges and lawmakers." That suggestion ought not to go unconsidered in the present year when almost every state in the union is electing judges and legislators.

Some 30,000 decisions by the high courts are being written and published every year and no man would be able to read them as fast as they are produced. They are often contradictory upon the same principle of common law because "the common law has become so complex and contradictory that respectable authority can be found on either side of almost every proposition."

Almost every other great business of the American people has been so organized, simplified and standardized as to make it a miracle of modern efficiency. But the organization and administration of justice remains confused and largely chaotic, when the need for close co-ordination, speed and uniformity of interpretations are of transcendent importance to the rights and interests of the people as they are affected by judicial processes.

The simplification of state statutes should be made a paramount issue in the choice of legislators to the end that justice may be made more certain to the people.

But does the Schmeling championship reconcile Germany to what the Yankee doughboys did to them?

Al Capone and Bishop Cannon seem to be equally expert in fencing off snipers into their personal exploits.

Shutting off competition by foreign goods is one way to a cancellation of the war debts due to our people.

Congress does well to furnish its own cheers for the tariff bill. The people have something else waiting for it.

Schmeling didn't want to win the fight on a foul, but it paid him just as O. K. as a K. O. would have done.

The Cannon episode seems as thoroughly closed as was the bishop's mouth.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

Toscanini.

Toscanini's tour of triumph through Europe with the New York Philharmonic has released a flood of information on the quiet self-effacing yet greatest living conductor. Although he is as highly paid as a star tenor, we learn, he is not in the least mercenary. When, after the war, the finances of La Scala were in a very bad way, he accepted a ridiculously nominal salary and worked like a horse to bring things back to their pre-war efficiency. His efforts were so successful that after a few months the directors felt able to double the sum he had agreed to accept. He sent them back the difference, telling them to spend it on improving the orchestra. In private life Toscanini is one of the quietest and most unassuming of men, but directly he lifts his baton he is transformed. Such is the force of his extraordinarily magnetic personality that he holds both the forces he is commanding and the audience in the hollow of his hand. Like all really great men, he is insensible to flattery with regard to his genius, but he is not without some little human vanities. At one time he affected rather transparent note paper for his correspondence, and if you held the envelope against the light you saw, instead of the watermark, an excellent photograph of Arturo Toscanini!

Revolution Not Ended.

Several new books on the French revolution have just appeared and the comments show once more that which many overlook, namely, that the revolution in France is to this day an unsettled event. It did not end in 1795 and for all, from the years 1795 to 1795 and then disappear. It has been defeated at times in the old 140 years since it has always been there in the hearts of the people as a working active ferment. But practically no living Frenchman regards the revolution of those far years with sympathy. He feels that the revolution was either the greatest blessing or the greatest curse which has befallen his country. It was the dramatic and concrete expression of the principles which the French still divide politically, something far deeper than a question of royalty or republic.

Turks Thank Kemal.

As a mark of gratitude for the Turkish script reform, the great national assembly has offered the Gazi, that is to say Kemal Pasha, a remarkable piece of local craftsmanship. It is a silver board, in which are inscribed in gold the letters of the new alphabet. His finely wrought frame is of massive gold. Over a million citizens of both sexes, aged between 16 and 40, have been trained in the national evening schools to use the new characters. It is hoped that illiteracy will be completely removed from 10 to 12 years ago. For the present use of the Latin letters is limited to official and commercial correspondence. Private letters continue to be written in the old script. But many a man of humble condition, to whom the art of writing formerly seemed an almost unattainable achievement, can now be seen tracing lines in course but readable Latin letters, one gathers from a number of dispatches.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THIS MEDICAL LIBERTY.

SQUAWK IS A SMOKE SCREEN.
The hard luck party is not about as good as personal liberty. Liberty, the noise, perhaps, did not protect him. But we still hear vague blissings and grumblings from the same sources about medical liberty, whatever that may be.

For one, should fight to the last breath such compulsory vaccination of myself or my children if I did not approve of vaccination. And I believe and assert that health authorities who, by means of trickery, mean and contemptible, when the state has one law concerning attendance at school, and another excluding children who are not vaccinated or who are not vaccinated by authority of a medical expert can justify this shameful class legislation and legitimate persecution. So far as medical liberty opposes or resists such injustice I am for it and with it though I like to keep myself and those who depend on my advice well vaccinated.

"Medical liberty" implies that citizens' right to choose their own healers or physicians or methods of treatment or remedies is imperiled. It implies that one school, guild, clique or group of physicians monopolizing or seeking to monopolize the healing business, scheming to compel every one to employ only the one kind of medicine, regular, medical, allopath, call him what you will.

How much actual truth is there in this frightful lie? Darn little, I repeat. I wish there were reasonable grounds for it. At least, I wish the state were far enough advanced to fix some sort of minimum standard of qualification for healers and make every person who would practice healing comply with the requirements in order to obtain his license. That simple, straightforward plan of licensure would be fair to every one concerned and it would put an end to a vast amount of chicanery that is now foisted on the unprotected public.

The charlatans, quacks, nostrum vendors and mail order swindlers who contribute most of the medical liberty propaganda know well enough that they must feed and stimulate popular ignorance, misinformation and prejudice against regular, reputable, recognized physicians—recognized by the state—in order to posture as long as possible such regulation of the healing business by the state, for the regular medical profession alone seeks, and advocates such standards and it will be said and day for the "medical liberty" chase when the state does cut out the fooling and the grafting and sets up an honest test for would-be healers.

Certain kinds of alleged religion are neither recognized nor tolerated by the state or the government; Mormonism, for instance. Does any "liberty" organization conduct a campaign of slander and abuse against those religious faiths which are recognized by the state, on the ground that they must feed and stimulate popular ignorance from practicing Mormonism?

The shady gentry supporting the "medical liberty" racket merely use as a smoke screen to blind prospective patrons to the truth.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Taxation Without Representation Is a Paramount Principle in Georgia.

There are 83 of the 161 counties in Georgia which, all put together, pay only 4 per cent of the property, poll and professional taxes levied in 1929 for state purposes.

Each of those counties pays less than $10,000 in state taxes. Jones county, among them, pays the most — $9,658.80 — and Chatahoochee county pays the least of any county in the state — $3,751.65. And each of the 33 counties receives more cash money from the state treasury every year than it pays into it.

By close compilation of the various funds from which they draw the overdraft of each could be stated here, but that is too long and dreary a story. The county authorities of each of them know how far it is a pensioner upon the general treasury of the people.

Something Yet More Interesting.

Then, again, there are 80 other counties, paying in taxes from $10,000 to $25,000 yearly, which all put together pay only 21 per cent of the total taxes of 1929 for state purposes.

The one of them that pays most is Grady county, which pays $24,848.97, and the one that pays the least is Jeff Davis, which pays $10,005.84. There are 11 of them that pay less than $11,000 each.

A large part of those 80 counties also draw, each of them, more money from the state than they pay to it. The 80 plus 33 make 113 of the 161 counties which all together pay only 25 per cent of the taxes for state purposes, or one-fourth of the total revenues to the general funds.

At the same time the county of Fulton alone pays 24 per cent of the total, and with the new income tax added for the last quarter of 1929 will pay much more than 24 per cent — probably much over 25 per cent of all state taxes.

We Have Another Rare View.

There are still other 30 counties that each pay from near $25,000 to $50,000 of the state taxes. The one of them that pays most is Spalding county, which pays $47,939.80, and the one which pays least is Coffee county, which pays $24,254.07. All put together these 30 counties pay 17 per cent of the taxes.

So that we now get the gratifying fact that 143 of the 161 counties pay into the state treasury for 1929 only 42 per cent of the state taxes, as follows:

80 counties pay 21 per cent
30 counties pay 17 per cent
33 counties pay 4 per cent
Total for 143 counties.....42 per cent
Now, if you will add to them Muscogee and Richmond counties, which together pay 8 per cent, you will

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK

Special Dispatch to The Atlanta Constitution and The North American Newspaper Alliance.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 15.—When a queen of cinema marries, the wedding gifts begin to assume the dimensions of a royal occasion.

Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon's wedding Saturday evening was the big event of the season. The famous of the colony were there because Daniels represents the gelatinous career as thoroughly as any beauty who ever reigned in this village.

Because of these things a flock of detectives guard wedding presents that any princess of the royal blood would get quite excited over.

From the Harold Lloyds, for example, there is the little matter of a dozen solid gold dinner plates. When Hollywood makes the royal gesture it goes all the way.

And not to the outcome in the solid gold matter William Le Baron, producer of the films in which Bebe is now starring, has given her a solid gold coffee service.

William Le Baron did Bebe a charming service when Paramount studio decided that, owing to talkies, the Daniels was no longer vital material for her role. Le Baron saved the lovely Bebe a voice test—then a contract. Just by way of returning the courtesy, she made him a picture which grossed so much money that a solid gold coffee service is a mere bagatelle.

The Talmadge girls gave Bebe silver platters so huge that she can stage the sort of feast Max Reinhardt puts on in his rocco castle at Salzburg, quite effectively. These girls are part and parcel of that group which began the star system in cinema. They are the ones who developed "fanning" into its present hectic state. They intrigued the fancy of a world by their beauty, their charm, and their alim-plicity. Don't forget the last—the greatest thing the cinema girls ever learned was the magic of the slender silhouette.

Norman Shearer sent Bebe her liens. This sounds like a nice housewifely and conservative gift. But when I tell you that it is hand-woven linen, so fine that an entire sheet can be slipped through a napkin ring, and that it is embellished with the rarest hand-worked lace and elaborate fine hand-embroidery, it's another story.

I almost forgot the groom in this account. Bebe Lyon's contribution to his bride's loveliness is a necklace of diamonds.

Diamonds have the day in cinema circles. Things go by cycles here, and by now every lady has her square-cut emerald, her emerald w. a. her string of pearls (small ones are in favor). So there is nothing to do but hang a line of diamond-fire about her slender neck.

Hoover's Reasons For Signing Tariff

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(P.)

The text of President Hoover's statement announcing he would sign the tariff bill follows. The president's statement at first also mentioned "injustices and objectionable compromises." But these words were later deleted.

"I shall approve the tariff bill. This legislation has now been under almost continuous consideration by congress for nearly 15 months. It was undertaken as the result of pledges given by the republican party in 1912, and it pledges its support of legislation which will give this market to him to the full extent of his ability to supply it."

"The republican party believes that the home market built up under the American farmer, and it pledges its support of legislation which will give this market to him to the full extent of his ability to supply it."

"The American labor in these industries may again command the home market, may maintain its standard of living, and may count upon employment in its accustomed field."

Is Lower Than Average.

"Platform promises must not be empty gestures. My message of April 16, 1929, to the special session of the congress I accordingly recommended an increase in agricultural protection; a limited revision of our schedule to take care of the economic changes necessitating increases or decreases since the enactment of the 1922 law, and I further recommended reorganization of both the tariff commission and of the method of executing the flexible provisions."

"A statistical estimate of the bill by the tariff commission shows that the average duties collected under the 1922 law were about 3.8 per cent of the value of all imports, both free and dutiable. If the average had been applied, it would have increased this percentage to about 16.0 per cent."

"The Wilson law of 30.9 per cent. The Dingley law of 25.8 per cent. The Payne-Aldrich law of 19.3 per cent. The Fordney-McCumber law of 13.83 per cent."

"Under the Underwood law of 1913 the amounts were disturbed by war conditions varying 6 per cent to 14.8 per cent. This compares with the average level of the tariff under:

"The McKinley law of 23.0 per cent. The Wilson law of 30.9 per cent. The Dingley law of 25.8 per cent. The Payne-Aldrich law of 19.3 per cent. The Fordney-McCumber law of 13.83 per cent."

"Under the Underwood law of 1913 the amounts were disturbed by war conditions varying 6 per cent to 14.8 per cent. This compares with the average level of the tariff under:

"The increases in tariff are largely directed to the interest of the farmer. The increases, it is stated by the tariff commission, are 33.7 per cent on products of agricultural origin measured in value, as distinguished from 6.25 per cent upon commodities of strictly non-agricultural origin. The average rate upon agricultural raw materials shows an increase from 38.10 per cent to 48.92 per cent in contrast to dutiable agricultural products, which show an average increase of from 31.02 per cent to 34.31 per cent. Compensatory duties have been given on products manufactured from agricultural raw materials and protective rates added to these in some instances."

"The present rate revisions as indicated by the tariff commission that in value of the total imports the duties upon approximately 22.5 per cent have been increased, and 77.5 per cent were untouched or decreased. By number of the dutiable items mentioned in the bill out of the total of about 5,800 there were about 880 increased, 235 decreased, and 2,670 untouched. The number of items increased was, therefore, 27 per cent of all dutiable items, and compares with 83 per cent of the number of items which were increased in the 1922 revision."

Burden Is On Congress.

"The tariff law, like all other tariff legislation, whether framed primarily upon a protective or a revenue basis. It contains many compromises between sectional interests and between different industries. The bill has ever been enacted or ever will be enacted under the present system, that will be perfect. A large portion of the duties are adjusted with good judgment, but it is bound to contain inequalities, and inequitable compromises. There are items upon which duties will prove too high, and others which duties will prove to be too low."

"Certainly no president, with his other duties, can pretend to make changes before the country. The complex factors which surround each of these 3,300 items, and which has required the attention of hundreds of men in congress for nearly a year, cannot be shifted or altered by executive action. It is the duty of congress to create a new basis for the flexible tariff, and it has been incorporated in this law. Thereby the means are established for objective and impartial adjustment of duties upon principles laid down by the congress, free from pressure inherent in legislative action."

"Thus, the outstanding step of the tariff legislation has been the reorganization of the largely ineffectual flexible provision of 1922 into a form which should render it possible to secure prompt and efficient adjustment of serious inequities and inequalities which may prove to have been incorporated in the bill."

"No New Revision Soon." "This new provision has even a larger importance. If a perfect tariff bill were enacted today, the increased rapidity of economic change and the shifting of our relations to the industries abroad, would create a continuous stream of items which would work hardship upon some segment of the American people, except for the flexible provision. Without a workable flexible provision we would require even more frequent congressional tariff revision than during the past. With the country should be freed from further general revision for many years to come. Congressional revisions are not only disturbing to business but with all their necessary collateral surroundings in lobbying, log-rolling and the activities of group interests, are disturbing to public confidence."

"Under the old flexible provisions, the task of adjustment was imposed directly upon the president, and the limitations in the law which circumscribed his action were such that he was long delayed and it was largely ineffectual, although important benefits were brought to the dairying, fruit, and other industries through."

"The new flexible provisions established the responsibility for revisions

You Can't Farm a Thousand Acres If Your Only Tool Is a Spade

By Robert Quillen

Adolph Zukor is a big man. He is president of Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, largest of motion picture producers.

Considered as a great executive, as one who influences the trend of civilization, or merely as a rich man, he ranks among the leaders. Recently he visited the village of his nativity in Hungary and there was a celebration in his honor.

"We hail you," said the mayor, "as the greatest citizen of our village."

To you that seems amusing, but the mayor was sincere and serious. He paid the greatest compliment of which he was capable. The village was his universe, in which he himself was a person of no little importance, and he could envision no higher honor than that of being its greatest citizen.

There you have the perfect "hick." Men and women of the age-old conflict between the provincial and the cosmopolitan—between the man who cannot think beyond his horizon and the man who sees the earth and its problems as a unit.

Isn't his place of abode but his state of mind that makes the "hick." He may live on a farm and dream of building a barn as large as his neighbors'. He may live in a village and nurse an ambition to be mayor or hope to become as rich as the local Shylock.

He may live upon a city of millions and regard himself as both cultured and sophisticated, and yet be unable to think beyond the city limits. He thinks his own section of America the only truly civilized.

He thinks Rockefeller the world's richest man, Ford the greatest business man, Edison the greatest scientist. He thinks America the richest nation per capita, and Americans the most literate of people.

If he is a senator or representative, he thinks his chief duty is to get something for the folks back home. However, and wherever he is, a narrow horizon makes him a provincial.

And since a man can be no bigger than the terms he thinks in, his habit of thinking in small terms dooms him to be small. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Great men are those who begin by thinking in great terms and then grow up to their vision.

Refugees Rescued After 8 Days Adrift

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 15.—(P.)—Terribly exhausted after drifting eight days on the Black sea, 40 refugees from Russia have arrived at the Bulgarian port of Varna, said a dispatch received here today.

The party, which included 15 women and four children, had left Cherson, Russia, in a sailing boat. They lost their bearings during the voyage, which is between 300 and 400 miles. They refused to say why they had fled from Russia.

Cherson is a town on the Dniester river, in Russia. Varna is in Bulgaria, about 150 miles across the Black sea from Constantinople.

COURT TO DECIDE REGISTRATION ROW

Howard C. McCutcheon, seeking reelection, has declared that while he has not received such a list himself, it is immaterial to his campaign. This is because he has admitted that he has requested a list from Taylor, who he further charges, expressed the hope that Foster would be defeated, and since he has not supplied the list, Taylor has admitted that he has a complete registration list of voters in each ward in the city and further has stated that he has furnished such lists to every candidate who has "filed notice" with him for such lists.

During the week-end, Chairman Choate of the mayor's committee engaged in checking alleged registration discrepancies, said that the committee probably would conclude its work during the day, at which time it is expected to announce who has "filed notice" with him for such lists.

Police officials have arranged to have a patroling at each voting precinct to see that order is preserved and to prevent attempts at fraudulent voting.

The registration list for the primary numbers 24,531 Atlantans. A large vote is expected, due to the interest centered in the mayor's race. It is believed the vote will run close to 17,000 or 18,000.

Judge John D. Humphries this morning will hear a petition filed by Philip Rosenberg, candidate for council from the second ward, for a mandamus to force City Clerk Walter C. Taylor to provide Rosenberg with a copy of the registration lists. Rosenberg has charged in his petition that Taylor has hidden the lists out on him and has refused to supply him with a copy in return for the fee of $5.

BEN AND BEBE SLIP AWAY ON HONEYMOON

Newest Screen Newlyweds Plan European Tour Later This Summer.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 15.—(AP)—The screen world's latest newlyweds, Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, whose marriage at the Beverly-Wilshire hotel last night was the screen colony's social event of the season, were honeymooning today somewhere in northern California.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. James M. Lash, of the First Congregational church, Hollywood, before approximately 1,000 guests.

After the ceremony, attended by filmdom's great and near-great, the pair slipped away, where even their best friends won't tell.

Lyon, juvenile screen lover, is a licensed pilot and owns a plane, but whether the two took off for an aerial honeymoon is a matter of conjecture in Hollywood. Some reports said they motored toward Carmel-by-the-Sea, south of San Francisco.

The marriage culminated a year's romance, though the two have known each other since childhood. It is the first marriage of either.

Miss Daniels wore a satin gown and a flowing veil covered with orange blossoms. A diamond necklace, a gift of Lyon, was about her neck. Her gift to the bridegroom was a tennis court at the Hollywood Hills home they will occupy.

Mrs. Harry Martin, screen critic, was matron of honor, and Hal Howe, actor, served as best man.

Tentative plans of the newlyweds include a honeymoon trip to Europe later in the summer after they had concluded present film work.

Summer School In Art Has Room For Few Pupils

There are a few vacancies in the classes of the summer school of art, now in progress at the High Museum of Art, according to announcement Sunday by L. Palmer Skidmore, the director. The school opened on June 9 and will continue through July 18.

In addition to the classes in drawing and the elements of painting, there are classes in practical and commercial art. In fact, arrangements have been made to meet the requirement of practically every seeker of correct training in any line of artistic endeavor, commercial or otherwise.

Sessions are held five days a week both morning and afternoon. Special schedules can be arranged, however, for students who are engaged in other duties which prevent their attendance at the double daily classes. No classes are held on Saturdays. The executive board of the Atlanta Art Association will meet on Wednesday afternoon.

W. F. Wooden, Veteran Engineer, Is Called

Wilbur F. Wooden, 83, a resident of Atlanta since 1880 and one of the veteran engineers of the Southern railroad died Sunday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. C. Edwards, at 1718 Pelham road.

Funeral services will be held from St. John's Methodist church, of which he was a steward, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon with the Rev. R. E. Lanford, L. M. Twigg and J. B. Allen officiating. Local No. 368, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will act as an escort at the funeral.

Mr. Wooden is survived by his widow and two other daughters, Mrs. Frank Armstrong and Mrs. O. H. Williamson.

BLACK AND WHITE CABS REDUCE RATES

A. L. Belle Isle, president of the Black and White Taxicab Company, yesterday announced a substantial reduction in rates charged for cabs operated by his company.

Mr. Belle Isle stated: "After an exhaustive study of cab operations throughout the United States we have decided to reduce our rates in Atlanta. This reduction is based on an immediate response by the public resulting in increased volume.

"The rate offered in this new schedule is lower than elsewhere in the United States, including New York city."

"For example," Mr. Belle Isle continued, "taxicab rates from railroad stations to all downtown points will not exceed 30 cents for five people. Rates to Biltmore hotel and Georgian Terrace will not exceed 40 cents."

Mr. Belle Isle stated further that he would add more cabs as the increased volume warranted, giving Atlanta the best cab service in the south.

Mr. Belle Isle is one of the pioneer taxicab operators of the south, beginning 20 years ago driving his own cab.

Many Civic Clubs Unite To Boost Milk Fund Show

Postcards, urging attendance at the "Toytown Revue," milk fund benefit to be staged at Loew's Capitol theater all next week, will be mailed this week to the entire membership of many civic clubs and other organizations in Atlanta.

Impelled by the appeal of the cause for which 100 Atlanta children are staging this mammoth kiddie show—the providing of milk for the child patients at the Scottish Rite hospital—presidents of these organizations volunteered to thus call upon their members to support the show and the cause at a meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, held last week. The Masonic Club is sponsoring the entire movement.

In the meantime the hundred young entertainers, none of whom is over 14 years of age, enter upon their final week of rehearsals confident that Atlanta is going to see just about the best and most entertaining show in her history. Under the training and direction of Miss Ruth Alpert, noted Broadway producer of revues, who has come here specially for this event, the children are fast developing a perfectly timed and artistically exquisite presentation that is surprising in its professional atmosphere. The "Toytown Revue" will be an added attraction at the Capitol through the week of June 23, with the feature picture, "The Floradora Girl," starring Marion Davies, providing exceptional screen amusement and the usual Loew program of vaudeville included. Throughout the week, girls of the P. P. Club will be in attendance in the lobbies of the theater, dressed as milkmaids, to receive contributions from everyone for the Scottish Rite hospital milk fund. Their milkpails should overflow each day with the nickels, dimes, dollars that generous Atlanta is sure to give.

Spengler's Prophecy Wrong, McElveen Says

Commenting on Oswald Spengler's "Cyclical Prophecy" that western civilization would collapse within 80 years, the Rev. W. F. McElveen, pastor of the United Congregational church, worshipping in the Atlanta Woman's Club, said Sunday morning: "The world and mankind have traveled a long way from crudity and cruelty, but they still have many imperfections. Because of these imperfections some look at the world with sour, cynical eyes. With querulous voices they whine about the failure of Christianity and civilization. These croaking pessimists might accelerate the betterment of the world and mankind if they would stop talking. Pessimists do serve God when they expose, satirize and lash the abundant follies of men and nations, but civilization will not be saved by those who point and criticize. Some temperaments are only happy when they are miserable. Half of pessimism is lack of faith and the other half is a torpid liver. Good people often hinder the coming of the Kingdom by gloomily talking about disease and ailments. A cheerful sinner is never so wearisome as a mournful saint. Because the central principle of life is growth toward betterment Spengler's prophecy will not be realized."

Clark Franks Dies After Brief Illness

Clark M. Franks, 57, died Sunday morning at the residence, 301 Park avenue, following a brief illness. Funeral services will be held at Spring Hill this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the Rev. C. R. Stauffer, officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery. Mr. Franks is survived by two sons,

A. W. Franks, of Cartersville, and M. H. Franks, of Atlanta, and three sisters, Mrs. W. R. Bruce, of Carnesville; Mrs. F. E. Lee, of Lavonia, and Mrs. J. W. Swift, of Westminster, S. C., and one brother, the Rev. J. T. Franks, of Lavonia.

Legion Asks Action On Pension Measure

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Passage of the World War veterans pension bill at this session of congress was urged today by John Thomas Taylor, vice president of the national legislative committee of the American Legion in a letter sent to all members of the senate. Taylor said the measure, as passed by the house, would cost $181,000,000 a year, but that the senate finance committee had reduced this figure to $74,000,000 and had included an amendment which would save an additional $25,000,000. In its present form, he said, the bill would cost only $49,000,000. The bill is one of the preferred list on the senate calendar. "The measure," he said, "will compensate about 100,000 of the most distressing and deserving cases, save an untold number of lives and brighten tens of thousands of homes now darkened through suffering and financial distress—homes in which widows and children have been pondering the gratitude of governments."

Germany Must Cut Budget To Meet Reparations—Parker

BERLIN, June 15.—(AP)—Warning that Germany could meet her obligations under the Young plan, and develop industrially only by immediate and radical budget reform, was sounded today by R. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations under the Dawes plan, in his final report today.

Mr. Gilbert's report pointed with satisfaction to the accomplishments under the outgoing Dawes plan, and expressed conviction that Germany is able to meet the Young plan obligations. The agent general, whose task ends with the start of the Young plan operations, also said Germany was capable of a great industrial future. The document summarized the course of reparations in the five years of Mr. Gilbert's stewardship.

"When the experts of the Dawes committee were called together at the beginning of 1924, Germany was on the point of collapse after an unprecedented period of inflation," said the report.

"Reparations were not being paid and prospects for future payments were uncertain. With stabilization of currency and adoption of the Dawes plan there came the turning point in German reconstruction, and in the succeeding years German economy has made remarkable progress.

Credit Sound. "Germany's credit has been re-established both at home and abroad, her industries have been reorganized and her productive capacity has been restored, and the general standard of living has greatly improved.

"This result has been achieved primarily through the industry and energy of the German people but the people of other countries have also assisted in a large measure by making their savings available for rebuilding of German economy.

"The Dawes plan, as was its object, also cleared the way for complete and final settlement of the reparations problem, which is embodied in the Young plan and The Hague agreement of January 30, 1930. The new plan is an act of confidence in the good faith and financial integrity of Germany, and Germany now has a definite task to perform on her own responsibility, without foreign supervision and without the transfer protection provided by the Dawes plan.

"Under the new conditions Germany has both the whole responsibility and the normal incentive to put her public finances in order, and there is no doubt that this problem, which is now the most urgent one confronting the German people, can also be solved, and solved on sound basis if anything like the same efforts are now applied to the reform of the public finances as has been devoted during the period of the Dawes plan to the general reform of the German economy.

Reform Stressed. "The urgency of the problem of financial reform was stressed again and again in Gilbert's report. Pointing out that the public revenues, which have developed during the period of the Dawes plan "to an extent far exceeding expectations of experts," are undoubtedly ample to meet all legitimate demands for public expenditure, including the Young plan payments, Mr. Gilbert charged that determination to keep expenditures down had been lacking.

"Though the means exist and the public revenues provide the essential material for a well-balanced budget the determination to keep expenditures safely within the limits of available income has been lacking, and the result has been a long series of budgetary deficits," said the report.

The budget for 1929-30, with an apparent gross deficit of about 1,075 millions of marks, was characterized in the report as perhaps the most unsatisfactory since stabilization.

Unwillingness. "There is evidence of unwillingness on the part of both government and parliament squarely and promptly to face the situation by taking the necessary steps either to control expenditure or to provide adequate resources to cover them," the report said.

"The budget of the reich, it is clear, has not suffered from lack of revenues though it has been shown in the past year that the great increases of previous years cannot be counted on to recur indefinitely and that there are practical limits beyond which taxation cannot well be pushed. But the actual returns for 1929-30 still show the same high revenues from taxation as in 1928-29, and with sources of revenue which are released under the Young plan, and increased taxes recently imposed, the reich is budgeting in the current year for total revenues from all sources about 11 billions of reichsmarks. It remains to be seen to what extent these estimates may be affected by the world-wide fall of commodity prices and the recession in business, but even with full allowance for these factors it is abundantly clear that the essential material exists, on the revenue side, for sound development of a budget.

"The difficulties from which the budget of the reich has been suffering are on the side of expenditure."

The Gilbert report incidentally complains of unnecessary complication in budgetary presentation, which "is ideally calculated to obscure the real position, and there is no doubt it has been responsible largely for persistent growth in public expenditure beyond the limits of resources available."

Statements Urged. "The report suggests regular publication of financial statements such as are usually issued by other governments, adding that "the statements now published show constant confusion between the budgetary position and the cash position."

The report says the reich's public debt rose 1,043 millions during the past year to 10,353 million marks, with the German national income standing at 70 billion marks, which latter sum is about 30 per cent higher than the national income five years ago. Allowances being made for growth in population and changes in price level, the national income has risen by 15 per cent per capita.

Savings bank deposits at the end of 1929 aggregated 9 billions. Regarding wages, the average level increased about 3 per cent in the past year which is less than half the previous year's rise.

Social expenditures, says the report, constitute one of the principal budget charges. They have grown from 250 millions to 1,345 millions in the course of the last five years as a result of the reich's becoming involved in subsidizing and contributing to social insurance organizations, and making good the shrinkage of their assets caused by inflation. Widespread unemployment has also been a factor.

Constantly new measures of relief have been adopted without adequate consideration of the financial consequences, the report observes.

Trade Maintained. On the other hand, the maintenance of the foreign trade balance may be regarded, the report states, as the most promising commercial development. On the whole, the value of exports has risen steadily ever since the re-establishment of orderly conditions after the inflation period. Statistics show the average year-to-year increase to be about one billion marks. During the final month of 1929 and the beginning of 1930 the report notes a recession mainly through uncertainty regarding the public finances and the fact that "capital that would otherwise have been available for productive business has been largely absorbed by the ever-increasing demand of the public authorities."

The agricultural situation remains a big problem, the report pointed out. This arises largely from conditions confronting agriculture—the world over, including the falling prices at which the 1929 crop was sold. Conditions special to Germany were a factor in this agricultural depression, the report shows.

Statistics cited show German agriculturalists are 7,262 million marks in debt. The report details proposed governmental measures to relieve that situation.

Texas Floods Kill Eight, One Missing

DALLAS, Texas, June 15.—(AP)—Eight persons were dead tonight and another, an aged grandmother, was missing, as a result of storms and sudden floods in west Texas during the last three days.

The bodies of Oscar Tidwell, his wife and their two children, Oscar, Jr., and Edna Bell, 17, were recovered Saturday from the waters of Lake Creek in Knox county, after a sudden freshet caused by a heavy rain washed away their home near Goree. Mrs. W. M. Gilliland, 80, Mrs. Tidwell's mother, still was missing and searchers continued their efforts to find her body.

Mrs. Morris Durham and Mrs. Corn Whitaker were killed when struck by a bolt of lightning during a severe storm at La Mesa last night. Five others in the home of Mrs. Durham were injured.

Lindsay Phillips, 15, was drowned Saturday when his automobile ran off the road into Tehuacana creek, near Fairfield. P. C. Lee, of Luling, was drowned Friday night when his automobile was swept from a creek crossing near San Angelo.

Heavy rains sent freshets over the highway near Westbrook. La Mesa reported the heaviest rain in years.

Flood waters of Threadgill creek wrecked the historic old Langes mill in the Doss community, near Fredericksburg. In Gillespie county ranch homes were wrecked. Many residents along arroyos and small creeks were forced to flee their homes as unprecedented rains sent waters of Beaver creek out of banks in several places in Mason county.

Track washouts were experienced at the O'Brien-Wichita Valley ranch, Wichita Falls and Southern railways. Train service between San Angelo and Sterling was suspended.

Address of James R. Bachman

"WILEY L. MOORE As I Know Him"

(Delivered Over WSB Last Friday Evening) and Published By Request

Introduction By Mr. Sam Johnson

Within a few days the people of Atlanta will cast the greatest number of votes in any election for Mayor of this city. Among the candidates for Mayor is Wiley L. Moore, a prominent business man, a constructive civic leader, and at present Chairman of the city's Finance Committee.

Mr. Moore has been unfairly attacked by one of his opponents, but Mr. Moore realizes that his fellow citizens are too intelligent to swallow such an overdose of political mud-slinging. Mud-slinging never was considered sportsman-like or ethical. You have the right to resent the statements of any man who will insult your intelligence with such tactics.

Wiley L. Moore pledges you a business administration as contrasted to a strictly political administration. He is the only candidate who has come before you with a clear-cut, definite, printed platform.

It is our pleasure to present one of Atlanta's distinguished citizens and prominent business men who has served Atlanta in the past as alderman and as Chairman of the Finance Committee, one who is loved for his ability, sincerity and integrity. Mr. James R. Bachman, who will briefly speak to you on the political situation but who desires to tell you about "Wiley L. Moore as I know him," Mr. Bachman.

Mr. Bachman's Address

I am hoping that those who are listening at this hour of the night are doing so because of an interest in their local government and with all such I covet the privilege of discussing this subject for a few brief minutes.

Within just a few days now the electorate of Atlanta will choose one of its citizens to be chief executive for four years. The decision is always important though we sometimes forget that it is—if the failure of the people to exercise their suffrage may be so construed. There has been also a somewhat general feeling that government is something we must have, of course, but that after all it is going to be more or less inefficient anyway and is no particular concern of the individual citizen.

Just now we are aware that our government is tremendously important and affects not only the city's well-being and reputation but the welfare of every home and every citizen.

The choice of a Mayor at this time is signally important for obvious reasons.

Atlanta has just emerged from a decade of wonderful growth and development. Not only has she greatly increased in population but her material expansion has been equally pronounced. This has not occurred by chance but is the result of the faith, energy, and enterprise of her people. In arriving at her present eminence she has been served in her government by many high-minded and devoted men and women. We have been shamed by betrayals of trust now laid bare but we must not forget and the world should know, that these occurrences are sensational and shocking because they are rare in our history. They are news and take front page prominence because they are not common. They put emphasis the integrity and devotion to public trust exhibited by thousands of men and women who daily serve their city without the slightest deflection from the path of honor. The city is indeed honored of her sons and daughters who with high purposes have kept the faith.

Atlanta does not look upon dishonesty and deception with the least degree of allowance. Whenever and wherever corruption is revealed she will visit her censure and punish with stern and even justice. This fact is now evident to the world.

As citizens of a now great city we must not, however, allow the process of purging the city's political life to delay the march of progress. The call of the hour is to go forward.

We are entering upon a new decade and we will do well to match our opportunities with a determination to extend the prestige and influence of the city. Already Atlanta is the center of the cultural and commercial influences which are activating our Southland but she needs to strengthen her position.

The future is beckoning us to larger areas of influence and service. The response of our people has been immediate and most inspiring. In my thirty years in Atlanta I believe I have never known more unbounded faith in her future. We are in the midst of business depression of somewhat serious character yet with a boldness which is thrilling, our leaders are initiating new and gigantic enterprises. Mighty structures bear their eloquent witness to the advent of a new day and the faith of a sturdy citizenship. Surely this program of expansion must be supported with well-ordered government.

To this end a man who looks to the future with enthusiastic faith and cheerful purpose is needed for standard-bearer.

It is my belief that Atlanta will not follow reactionary and fault-finding leadership. She is not so interested in post-mortems as in the achievements of tomorrow. She is less concerned with personal recriminations than with a worthwhile program inviting united effort to promote peace and prosperity. She will not look with favor upon anyone who seeks the office of Mayor through abuse and vilification of political rivals. She realizes that a snarling, quarrelsome spirit is hardly qualified to lead our city to the heights ahead of us. No—she wants a man of ardent faith and cheerful purpose.

Then, too, he should be a man of skill and ability in practical affairs of government. The breadth of his own experience should have been such as to acquaint him with business on a large scale and his achievements such as to evidence the qualities of business sagacity necessary for a wise expenditure of the people's money.

Again he ought to be a man with the natural gift of leadership—one who can inspire us all to assume and discharge our responsibility as citizens and encourage a high sense of duty on the part of those who serve in city government.

He ought to be a man with sincere interest in the schools, a man of sound judgment and sympathetic interest—one who sees in the youth of the city its most precious possession.

He ought to be a human man—one who possesses a real desire to promote the happiness of our homes through the processes of government—a man whose interest embraces us all without regard to station or estate—a man who would administer this office in a fair and helpful way without respect to person—a friendly man who makes friends.

Finally, he must be a man of unquestioned integrity—a man of keen sense of honor and strong adherence to those standards of conduct which mark the gentleman.

To sum up—the hour calls for a leader who has faith and a cheerful purpose—skill and ability in practical affairs—possesses natural qualities of leadership—is interested in schools—a human man and one of unquestioned integrity. Some of you are possibly saying, "Check and double check"—"If only, we can find the man."

Well, I believe I know him and his name is Wiley Moore. The man and the hour have met. For years I have followed his career—watched him critically with a desire to justly appraise him. In the stressful days of 1907, the fortunes of trade threw him out of employment. Since then with a stout heart and a cheerful philosophy of life he has applied himself diligently to the building of a business now grown to large proportions.

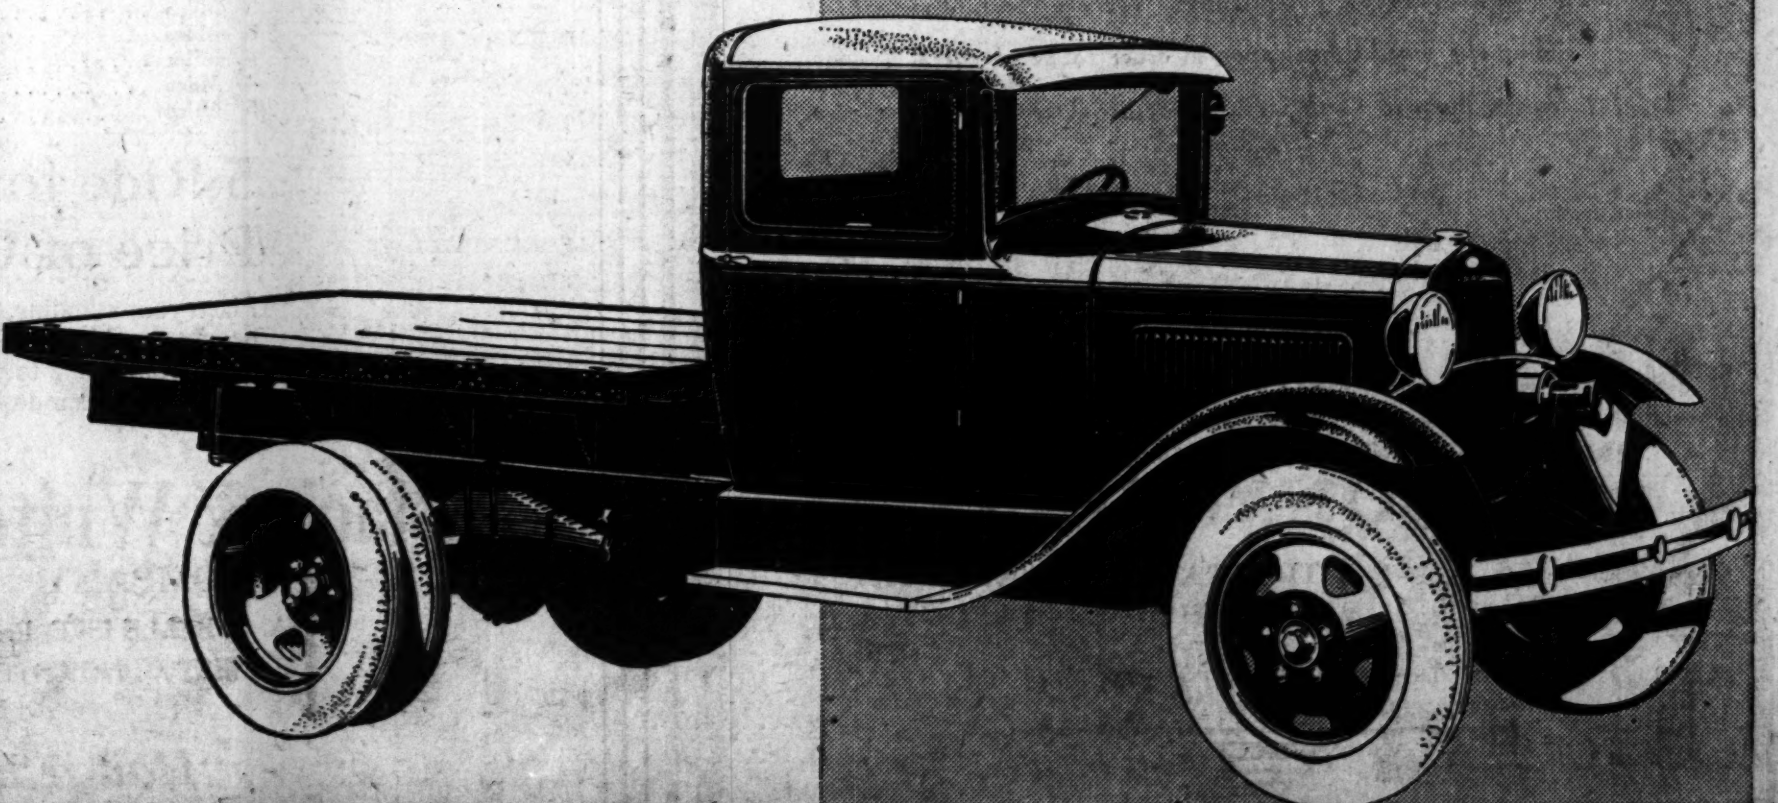

My association with him in the General Council for several years convinced me beyond a doubt that he is a man of down-right honesty, sound judgment and sincere impulses. I have found him to be the sincere champion of an adequate school system and contending always with infectious good nature for progress in civic affairs along sane and wholesome lines. The eagle eye of the inquisitor has swept the entire field of his public record and probed into all of his public acts. His private life has been an open book. The pitiless searchlight of publicity has been focused upon his entire career. Out of it all, he comes without the suggestion of faint. The verdict is that this man is without guile. He has stood the test and I believe the people of Atlanta, always desiring to be just, will register their profound resentment that a scurrilous and wanton attack should be made upon him for the sole purpose of promoting selfish political ambitions. Those who have served us well are entitled to protection from unwarranted assault and it is time that we were saying to those who aspire to office that a more potent appeal to our suffrage would be to present their own claim to preferment rather than to rely upon an effort to discredit their political competitors.

Wiley Moore has come clean. He assumes no role of righteousness. He makes no parade of his virtues. But the man is animated by a passion to be helpful in public service. I wish the infection of his spirit might be imparted to more of our capable men. If it were, the problems of government would find wiser solutions and the science of government be more rapidly advanced.

We are facing 1940. Let's go. A good start would be to choose Wiley Moore to lead the march. I have no connection with him in business and hardly need say I am moved by no personal obligation, nor by any solicitation to approve his candidacy. I simply believe in him without reservation and believe he would make us a wise, resourceful, forward-looking leader.

In closing, let me express my thanks for your good attention. There has been no heckling. I have been allowed to speak without interruption, which is something that doesn't always happen to me. You and I have had a perfectly orderly campaign-meeting and before saying good night, let me hope that in choosing one of four candidates, all honorable men, the choice is made which will put us in tune with the best aspirations of our times and untidely at work to make ours not only a bigger city, but a greater one as well. Now, until we meet again four years from now at another Mayor's campaign, I bid you all—good night.

Let's Give Atlanta a Business Administration

'All Quiet' Starting Second Week Today

"All Quiet on the Western Front," most sensational talking screen production yet, opens the second week of its road show run at the Erlanger theater this afternoon. The deep impression which this vividly real story of the war has made upon Atlantans was evidenced last week by the steady increase in patronage each day, surest indication of any that everyone who saw it talked about its tremendous power and advised all their friends and acquaintances not to miss it.

Showing under the exceptionally perfect conditions of a road show, and with the certainty that it cannot be shown again in Atlanta this season, the screen dramatization of Erich Maria Remarque's best selling book has been held over for the second week in response to this popular demand. It will be shown twice daily all week at the Erlanger, at 2:30 in the afternoon and 8:30 at night.

All seats are reserved and may be secured, for any performance, either at the theater box office or at Phillips and Crew Piano Company, on Peachtree near Baker street.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER MISSES SOMETHING.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Familiar things may pass and we
Their passing do not even see.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit sat on the bank of the Smiling Pool, hoping that Jerry Muskrat would reappear. Jerry had just started Peter so that Peter had nearly jumped into the water. But though he waited and waited he saw no sign of Jerry Muskrat. The little ripples that Jerry had made when he dived gradually disappeared. The Smiling Pool lay quiet and peaceful. In it Peter could see reflected the blue, blue sky and the drifting fluffy clouds. The Big Hickory tree seemed to have its double in the water.

Peter looked over to the green lily-pads and there on the biggest of them sat Grandfather Frog. Grandfather Frog was looking very fine with his green coat and white-and-yellow waistcoat. Ever as Peter looked, Grandfather Frog opened his great mouth and a foolish green fly disappeared. "Chug-a-rum!" said Grandfather Frog with a great deal of satisfaction. Over in the alders near the head of the Smiling Pool, Redwing the Blackbird was singing joyously. On a stone on the edge of the Smiling Pool, Teeter the Sandpiper, was bobbing up and down in that funny way of his. Rattles the Kingfisher, with his top-knot standing up straight, making his head look as if he were top-heavy, was sitting on a branch of the Big Hickory tree that overhung the water. Peter knew that Rattles was watching for fish.

Suddenly it came to Peter that the Smiling Pool didn't seem to be quite what it should be. All these things were as he had seen them many times, but he had a feeling that there was something odd about the Smiling Pool. Peter slowly scratched a long ear with a long hindfoot.

"It seems to me," said he thoughtfully, "that I miss something. I don't know what it is I miss, but I miss something."

He sat up very straight and looked the Smiling Pool all over. There was the Big Rock on which he had so often seen Jerry Muskrat, or sometimes Billy Mink. There was the Laughing Brook coming in at the upper end and leaving at the lower end. There were the green banks, high in some places and low in others. It was all very, very familiar. Still Peter had a sense of missing something.

Then, quite abruptly, it popped into Peter's head what it was he missed. "It isn't here!" he exclaimed right out loud.

"What isn't here?" asked Grandfather Frog in his gruff voice.

"Jerry Muskrat's house!" cried Peter.

"Of course it isn't here," replied Grandfather Frog. "Have you just discovered that?"

Peter nodded. "Yes," said he meekly. "Has it been gone a very long time?"

"Ever since the spring flood," replied Grandfather Frog. "You don't use your eyes very well. You've been over here times enough to discover

"What isn't here?" asked Grandfather Frog in his gruff voice.

long ago that Jerry Muskrat's house is missing."

"It's too bad, isn't it?" said Peter.

"What is too bad?" inquired Grandfather Frog in his deepest voice.

"Why, that Jerry Muskrat hasn't any home," replied Peter.

"Who says he hasn't any home? I didn't say it."

Will Rogers Amusing
In New Picture at Fox

Will Rogers in "So This Is London." Fanchon and Marco idea, "Carnival Russe" Fox orchestra, Enrico Leide conducting. In a paraphrase of Rubenstein's "Melody in F." Feature picture starts at 2:45, 5:12, 7:30 and 10:06. Stage show at 2:00, 4:32, 7:50 and 9:20.

Will Rogers, playing this week at the Fox theater in the moving picture side of a program whose vaudeville bill is exceptionally good, more than satisfies the anticipation which announcement of his film created in the minds of Atlanta theater-goers.

The plot of "So This Is London" could not have been better adapted for the exploitation of Will Rogers. The erstwhile cowpuncher, in the American mind, is the epitome of what America, in its sincerest moments, conceives itself to be. All we know is what we read about in the papers, too, and we like to be told about it.

To place this character as just a supercilious, stage-type English background, using his homely wit as a mirror to our own reactions, tickles our humor. A house full to the last seat roared for an hour and a half Saturday night.

Lumsden Hare, as an English lord, was guilty of overplaying his part, but in the nature of the play the exaggeration passed. Irene Rich, as Mrs. Draper, Rogers' wife, was good; and Maureen O'Sullivan, who played in "The Cuckoos," had a prominent part.

Mel Ruick, successor to Don Wilkins, proved pleasing in making his debut to Atlanta audiences. Ruick, as master of ceremonies, is personable without being obtrusive. His strong voice is an acquisition to the Fox, where weaker tones are unconvincing, if not actually lost in space.

Fanchon and Marco's "Carnival Russe" is of a "different" nature. It is lively with color and wit, and the stage setting is especially good.

A novel parade of wooden soldiers to the hallowed tune of the same title was attractive. Altogether the Fox exceeded itself in honoring its new master of ceremonies.

The Fox orchestra, with Enrico Leide conducting, rendered a paraphrase of Rubenstein's "Melody in F," a special arrangement by Mr. Leide.

The World Champion

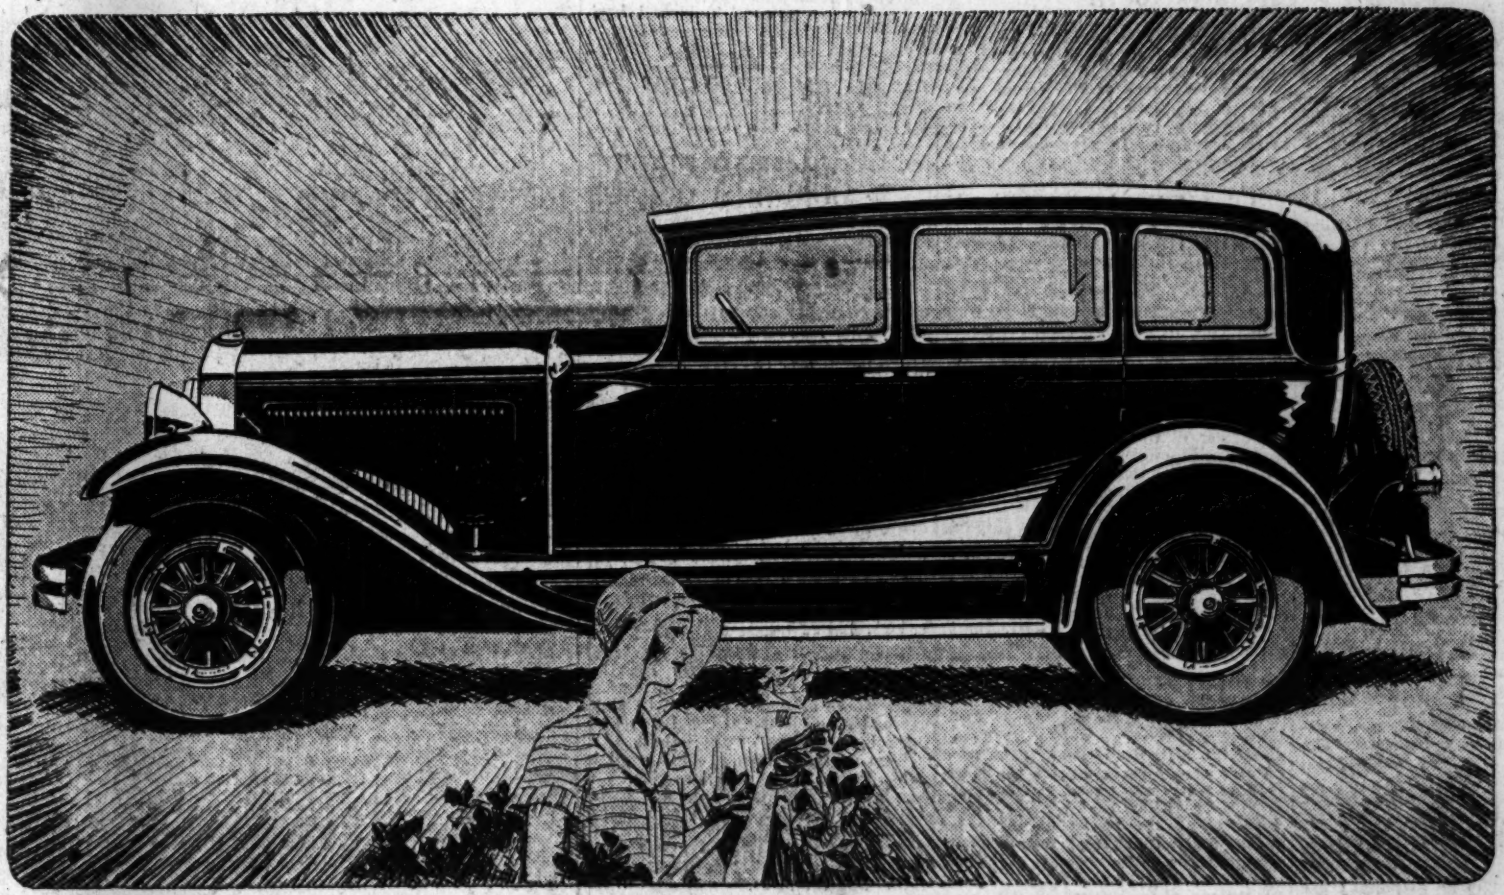

AUTHORITY: On July 21, 1928, four Studebaker President Eight strictly stock model cars started. On August 8-9, these cars finished 30,000-mile runs at more than a mile a minute average speed for the entire distance. The runs were made on the Atlantic City Speedway one and one-half mile board track.

The first President roadster completed its 30,000-mile journey in 26,326 minutes and the second in 26,329 minutes total elapsed time. Each roadster exceeded 68 miles per hour average speed for the entire distance—68 miles per hour for 19 days and 18 nights. The fastest 1,000 miles of each roadster was the last 1,000, viz., the thirtieth, 71.67 and 69.65 miles per hour.

The first of the two sedans, closed cars upon which wind resistance is greater than open cars, finished its 30,000 miles in 28,057 minutes, an average of 64.15 miles per hour, and the second finished in 28,128 minutes, or 63.99 miles per hour.

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT EIGHT

At the very time other makers are preparing to introduce new and untried Eights, Studebaker's seasoned President Eight enters its third year as Champion Stock Car of the World.

When you buy a President Eight you buy experience rather than experiment. It holds the greatest world and international records for speed and endurance, and more American stock car records than all other makes of cars combined. These records, still unmatched by automobile, airplane, dirigible, locomotive or ship, prove the dependability and superiority of this great car.

Three years have seen this magnificent car seasoned, refined, re-styled to the very moment of fashion. It is today a greater, and a smarter, champion than ever. Seventy-eight years of Studebaker fame certify its honest, enduring quality.

When you buy your new Eight, buy a Champion! Buy a car that will do you credit—on the road as well as at the curb. Buy an Eight seasoned in service and success—Studebaker's President Eight.

Church Day Will Be Observed By Y.W.C.A. at Camp Highland

Activities planned at Camp Highland, Y. W. C. A. camp, located 12 miles from Atlanta, just off the Marietta highway, include the observance of church day, an informal tea for business women, picnics and various entertainments for girls and women. More than 35 Girl Reserves from both the city and county schools were present June 9-15 to officially open Camp Highland. Under the direction of Miss Daisy Hoover, Girl Reserve secretary, they enjoyed many unusual features of camp life, such as army and navy drills, swimming tournaments and Girl Reserve ceremonies. Among those registered were Misses

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

Woodruff, Francis Hayes, Lillian Rossheart, Alberta Palmour, Mary White, Dutton, Isabel Craig, Mary Katherine Benoni, Edeline McGraw, Thelma Bryant, Jeannette Ewing, Constance Van Nostrand, Ruth Jones, Elizabeth Center, Henrietta Kuster, Syble Avery, Katherine Boggs, Virginia Sewell, Hazel Carter and Isabel Roberts. Girls at Camp Highland are very grateful to Sinclair Jacobs, of Jacobs Pharmacy, for the medicine kit which he presented last week.

Tuesday, June 17, will be observed as church day at Camp Highland. A cordial invitation has been extended to girls and women from every church in the city to go to Camp Highland Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. E. V. Carter, membership chairman, reminds the guests to bring bathing suits, so they may enjoy a swim in the beautiful Highland pool. Saturday afternoon, June 21, members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, Quota Club and Pilot Club will be entertained at an informal tea at Highland. Miss Clara Nolen, general secretary, and Miss Berna Jarard, camp director, with their committees, will act as hostesses. Miss Georgia Yarbrough, member of the Old Glory Club, will take about 20 members of the Fidelity class of the Grant Park Methodist church to Highland for a week-end trip, June 21. Miss Daisy Hoover and three Atlanta girls elected as delegates will leave June 16 for Brevard, N. C., to attend the Girl Reserve conference held at Camp Sapphire, June 16-24. Miss Sara Nichols, from North Avenue Presbyterian school; Miss Blanche Reeves, Fulton High, and Miss Beth Andrews, Girls' High, will be among the 200 girls from nine southern states represented at this conference. Miss Lucile Littaker, national executive secretary of the Girl Reserve department, will be in charge of the conference.

Miss Shaw Honors Miss Kilpatrick.

Miss Mary Shaw was hostess recently at her home on Elkmont drive at a bridge shower in honor of Miss Elsie Kilpatrick, a popular bride-elect. The color scheme of yellow and green was attractively carried out in the decorations.

Those invited were: Mrs. Eugene Dickey, Mrs. Reid Ford, Miss Nell Oxford, Mrs. James H. McDaniel, Mrs. Earl Hassler, Miss Margaret Rutledge, Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick, Miss Virginia Wilson, Miss Bobby Kilpatrick, Miss Opal Crockett, Mrs. Larry Holden, Miss Allie Sefton and Miss Eloise Kilpatrick.

Miss Warlick Honored at Tea.

A lovely affair of Friday afternoon was the social tea in honor of Miss Mildred Warlick, a bride-elect of June at the home of Miss Elizabeth Martin. The table was beautifully appointed with the bridal motifs. In the center was a tiny bride and groom in a mound of sweet peas. Bells and slip-pers further carried out the idea. The table and the room were lighted with pink tapers. After tea was served the bride-elect was led into a pink cobweb by little Virginia and Jean Martin. At the end of each strand was fastened something useful and appropriate for the kitchen. When the web was cleared away the guests huddled cup to lips and put their names on them. Those present were Misses Mildred Warlick, Lenora Boytt Shannon, Madge Van Houten, Ethel Hays, Verette Brandes, Pearl Zachry, Susie Sudderth and Elizabeth Martin. Mrs. E. E. Martin and Mrs. C. G. Martin assisted in entertaining.

Mrs. Senn Entertains For Miss Senn.

Mrs. J. G. Senn entertained Saturday at a tressure-tee, honoring her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Senn. The house was decorated throughout with vari-colored spring flowers. The tea table was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with a large central basket of silver filled with pastel flowers and unshaded green candles in silver candlesticks, and silver dishes of pink and green mints.

Mrs. J. G. Senn, Miss Elizabeth Senn and Mrs. L. H. Palmer were in the receiving line. Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames J. A. Flewellyn, D. L. Nichols, M. F. Brown, Yancy Senn, Merritt Duncan, Sidney Smith and C. F. Ward. The ladies serving were Misses Anne Senn, John Senn, Evelyn Hayes, Mesdames C. Manley Brown and Jack Hushin.

Miss Grace Bible Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Grover Bell entertained at a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon at her home on St. Charles avenue, in honor of Miss Grace Bible, bride-elect, whose marriage will be solemnized at a double ceremony with Miss Evelyn Brannon, June 28. Little Miss Marion Bell presented the gifts to the honor guest and the hostess was assisted in entertaining by her sisters, Miss Ida Cooper and Mrs. Irma Merry, and Mrs. B. G. Statham.

Mrs. R. N. Fickett, Jr., was hostess Saturday to 12 guests at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue at an exquisite appointed dinner party, honoring Miss Elizabeth Fickett Senn, whose marriage to Leslie Howard Palmer will be one of the social affairs of this week, taking place Thursday, June 20.

West End Woman's Club Plans Seventh Anniversary Celebration

The seventh anniversary of the West End Woman's Club will be celebrated with a birthday party Friday evening, June 20, at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse, 1100 Cascade road. Mrs. Clark M. Settle, president, has issued invitations to club members and their friends. The club was organized June 20, 1923 at the Wren's Nest, the home of Joel Chandler Harris, in West End and since that time has grown steadily and accomplished many worthwhile things, among which was the erection of the beautiful clubhouse on Cascade road, that has become one of the show places of Atlanta.

The president, Mrs. Clark M. Settle, and the past presidents, Mesdames Emmett W. Brogdon, Dupont Murphy, Chester W. Johnson, George Grant and L. M. Abers, will compose the reception committee. A program has been arranged and bridge and dancing will be enjoyed during the evening.

The president has appointed the following committees: Arrangements—Mesdames Arthur Robinson, G. C. Barrow, Carl Faires, C. F. Cole and J. R. Curtis. Entertainment—Mesdames Ben Jerome, Charles B. Pile, E. F. DeFreese, Tom Jackson, J. S. Nunnally. Decoration—Mesdames J. H. Phagan, W. N. Ponder, J. H. Legien, J. J. Edwards, Nannie Cathcart, Obie Johnston, George White, Miss Bessie Cook, hospital chairman of the club, sponsors a bridge luncheon at the clubhouse Tuesday at 10 o'clock. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock with the following menu, chicken a la king on toast.

Miss Akerman Attends Conference.

Miss Catherine Akerman, of Atlanta, is in New York attending the annual conference of outgoing missionaries conducted by the Presbyterian foreign board at its offices at 156 Fifth avenue. Miss Akerman is under appointment by the Presbyterian board as a missionary in Mesopotamia. Thirty-four of the regular and special term missionaries are assigned to China, 16 to India, 11 to the Cameroons, the only center of Presbyterian work in Africa; 8 to Persia and 6 to Japan. Smaller quotas will go to nine other countries.

Mrs. W. F. Martin To Be Honored.

Miss Margaret Gibbs will be hostess at a tea Monday afternoon, June 16, at her home, 62 Park lane, Analee Park, complimenting Mrs. W. F. Martin, of Wilmington, N. C. Mr. and Mrs. Martin are former residents of Atlanta, and are now guests of their sister, Mrs. Fannie Martin Gibbs.

DeFreese, Ben Jerome, Olin Nickleson, Horace Bentley, J. E. Curtis, Z. T. Layfield, Ruby Riley, Luta G. Manry, R. C. Blair, W. C. Griffith, Miss Bessie Cook and others.

An affair of the past week was the dance given by the West End Woman's Club at the West End Woman's Club, assembling a large number of the social contingent of Atlanta. Mrs. N. C. Dickson was in charge of the dance and Miss Grace West is the president of the club.

A resolution was presented by Mrs. C. F. Cole at the business meeting of the club Wednesday favoring the closing of grocery stores Wednesday afternoon during the summer months in order that the employees might have that time for rest and recreation, and it was unanimously adopted by the club.

Mrs. Van Landingham To Be Honored.

Mrs. Ralph Van Landingham, of Charlotte, N. C., arrived Saturday to visit Mrs. Archibald Davis at her home on Peachtree street. She will be honor guest at the informal party given Friday, June 20, by Mrs. Davis, the guests to number intimate friends of Mrs. Van Landingham, who was formerly Miss Susie Harwood, of Atlanta.

Phi Chi Theta Entertains Delegates.

Upsilon chapter of Phi Chi Theta of the Georgia Tech Evening School of Commerce entertained Saturday in honor of its delegates to the national convention in Boston. Miss Mary Cheatham and Miss Mary Mitchell, at a luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel. The sorority colors, lavender and gold, were carried out effectively in the table decorations. Farewell gifts were presented to the delegates by each of the members of Upsilon chapter.

Better Films Meets Next Thursday.

The date of the executive board meeting of the Atlanta Better Films Committee has been changed to the third Thursday of each month, to be held at 10 o'clock in parlor "A," Anley hotel. These meetings were formerly held on the Tuesday preceding the Better Films luncheon. Mrs. Patrick Gray, president, requests that board members note the change.

The management of the Fox theater has arranged a film party to be given at the Fox theater Monday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock to see "This Is London," to which all members of the Better Films Committee are invited. Members are requested to meet with the group at that hour, and to have with them their membership cards which will constitute admission.

The new officers were entertained at luncheon Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Patrick Gray, president of the Better Films Committee. The beautiful table appointments were harmoniously carried out in a color scheme of amber and blue, and exquisite flowers from the garden of the hostess graced the house. Seven guests were present.

Mrs. Curtis Agner Honors Recent Bride.

Mrs. Curtis Agner entertained at a miscellaneous shower Saturday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ernest E. Parent-Teachers' Institute Changes Date of Athens Meet

July 23, 24 and 25 are the dates set for the Parents and Teachers institute at Athens, not June 23, 24 and 25, as heretofore stated, according to Mrs. E. H. Hankinson, president of Georgia P.-T. A. Congress. This change in dates is made necessary by unforeseen conflicting activities at the university. The dates now run coincident with the meeting of the superintendents and grand opera. The program, speakers, schedule, social activities, and general arrangements remain unchanged.

There will be no registration fee. Hotels are offering rates of $1.50 per day to members of the institute. A luncheon and dinner for Wednesday, a luncheon for Thursday, and another for Friday, all complimentary, will be part of the program. Breakfasts and the education banquet Thursday evening will be at the expense of those attending. Reserved seat tickets for the three nights grand opera will be available for $4, single seats, $1.50. There will be no evening sessions of the institute.

Gene and Ann, of Columbus, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Beane. Mrs. C. R. Pritchard and children are visiting relatives in California. Dr. C. E. Boyd is spending the week in Junaluska, N. C.

Miss Barbara Daniel has returned to her home in Columbus after attending the Emory commencement. Mrs. T. T. Durham and daughter, Lucy, are visiting relatives in Virginia. Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Jack are visiting relatives in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Goggins are visiting relatives in Conyers. Misses Mildred and Evelyn Daniel, of Columbus, were called to Atlanta on account of the illness of their mother, Mrs. R. B. Daniel.

Mrs. E. E. Newsum, of Union Point, spent Saturday with Mrs. Thomas Campbell. Misses Eugenia and Mary Candler, sophomores of Ward Belmont college, have returned to spend their vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Candler.

Mrs. Henry Jones returned Saturday to her home in West Point after a visit to her mother, Mrs. James E. Dickey.

that those who will may have the advantage of this musical program. Superintendents from all sections of the state have fallen in line with the idea of the joint afternoon session, and are signifying intention to be present with representatives from their respective counties. Replies are coming in from local associations, some sending one member for the full time, and others auto parties for each day's session.

Mimeographed material summing up the work of every class will be placed in the hands of the institute that the course may be carried back to the locals in the most concrete form.

Mother Singers, under the direction of Miss Jennie Belle Smith, will open sessions with assembly singing of numbers suitable for P.-T. A. activities. Every phase of P.-T. A. work will be presented. Available material for study will be on display. Associations are urged to find a way to take advantage of this opportunity to know what to do in Parent-Teacher work, and how to do it.

PASSION FLOWER

By Kathleen Norris

Thirty-seventh installment.

Walking home, she would see an occasional motor car, coming over the long grade from Monterey, and her heart would leap. Was it Dan's car—that one, or the next one, or the next one—was he returning to her at last?

She began to feel conscious of nervousness, a sort of vague fear lying behind and underneath all other moods. Her heart would beat rapidly when she was quietly reading at night; an unexpected sound would make her start and shudder, her apprehensive eyes moving to the window, or glancing uneasily over her shoulder.

On a certain March morning, the Carmel colony awakened in a world of fog.

When Cassy looked out of her bedroom window at half-past seven that morning, there was no sea and there was no world. Close to the cottage, some shrubs showed vague and colorless against the soft wall of undulating mist; beyond that was nothing; lights were lighted over the breakfast table; a wood fire crackled.

"It scares me," Inga said, round-eyed, coming in with the coffee.

"It does not scare me, I've never in my life seen such a fog!"

The women stood at windows, looking at it helplessly. White and white, and more white, billowing against the white. Toward the west, they could hear some steamer making her way down the coast, with muffled, hoarse cries, floating fearfully into the caroling mist.

Cassy, in spite of a vague exhilaration, felt oddly uneasy.

"When a thing's as bad as this you want it to get worse, don't you, mother?" Tommy asked. She laughed, stooping to kiss the top of his dark head.

"You do feel rather that way, Tom."

"Are we going to market?" he asked.

"Oh, yes. But I wouldn't dare drive."

In the village no motors were stirring. Women were walking cautiously along the wooden sidewalks, laughing excitedly when they looked up against each other in the fog.

"You look as if you were scared, Mrs. Wallace."

"Well," Cassy shook herself, actually and mentally, managed an answering smile. "Well, I am!" she confessed.

"I don't know why. There's something creepy about it, something that gets on my nerves." Tears stood suddenly in her eyes.

"It's perfectly safe," the other woman said sympathetically.

"Oh, I know it! But I don't know—alone there with Inga and the children, there seems to be something terrifying."

"Well, why not come over to my house for lunch and the afternoon, Mrs. Wallace?" Inga asked. Cassy assured her with a nervous laugh.

Once in the house Cassy found herself shaking with terror.

Of what? Of what? Surely not of this fog, or of a native born San Franciscan she had been accustomed to lesser and greater fogs a hundred mornings a year, all her life long.

"Maybe I have a fever," Cassy thought, putting her palms to her hot cheeks.

At 11 o'clock the telephone rang: Cassy's hand shook as she took down the receiver. It was Mac, talking from San Francisco, friendly and casual.

"You sound queer, Cassy. What's up?"

Her thrill of reassuring laughter died away.

"Nothing! Only we have the most ghastly fog down here this morning. The whole place is in a winding sheet!"

"We've got a heavy fog here, too."

"Oh, have you?" For some obscure reason she was glad.

"How about my coming down to-night for dinner?"

"Oh, Mac, you'd look like a conquering army!"

"Then I'll come. I'll get there at seven."

"Mac, you're saving my life. You sound so alive and normal and human!"

"Cassy," he said seriously, "stop being so nice to me. You're putting all kinds of ideas in my head!"

And this time her laugh was really

East Lake To Be Scene of Battle for National Open Places Today

JOE KEIFER HURLS CRACKERS TO 10-6 VICTORY

PLACES IN OPEN TO BE AT STAKE IN PLAY TODAY

Sixteen Dixie Golf Aces To Contest Two Available Spots.

Entrants in Test Enjoy Good Day

Howard Beckett, Capital City professional who is entered in the qualifying rounds for the national open championship today at East Lake, had a good practice round Sunday on the Capital City course, carding a brilliant 69, three strokes under par.

Frank Ball, East Lake's entry for today, had his clubs under control, being two strokes under par, with 70.

Sam Perry, Southern amateur champion, and Charles Hall, both from Birmingham, had good rounds over the East Lake course, Perry shooting a 70 and Hall a 74.

Several others who will attempt to qualify today played the East Lake course Sunday.

While Bobby Jones is driving his way over the Hoylake course in pursuit of the British open golf championship today, 16 ambitious southern golfers will play a 36-hole match over the East Lake Country Club course, Bobby's own, for two places in the national open championship to be played in Minneapolis early in July.

The first of the 36 holes will be played in the morning with the groups starting off at 10-minute intervals. Clarence Howes of Greenville, S. C., Frank Ball of East Lake, and Bill Harmon of Rome, Ga., will be the first to tee off at 9 o'clock. They will be followed by Charles Rice of Asheville, N. C., and J. Carter Jackson of Athens, Ga., formerly of Atlanta.

Although 18 players are entered, only 16 will compete as Greening, Livestone and Jimmy Tupper of Nashville, have sent word to Atlanta that they will not be able to play.

Included in the list of starters for two places from the Atlanta district are Frank Ball, East Lake professional, and Howard Beckett, Capital City City professional and four other Georgians.

Two promising stars entered are Sam Perry, and Charles W. Hall, both of Birmingham, Ala. Perry is southern amateur champion and Southern conference champion, while Hall, professional at the Birmingham Country Club, is a former Southeastern Professional Golfers' Association champion.

Other Georgians include J. Carter Jackson, former professional at the Stockdale municipal course; Bill Harmon of Rome; Frank Stevenson, of Americus, and Alex Milner, of LaGrange.

The starting times and groups follow:

9:00 A. M.—Clarence Howes, Greenville, S. C.; Frank Ball, Atlanta, Ga.; Bill Harmon, Rome, Ga.

9:10 A. M.—Charles Rice, Asheville, N. C.; J. Carter Jackson, Athens, Ga.

9:20 A. M.—Charles W. Hall, Birmingham, Ala.; Sam Perry, Birmingham, Ala.; Charles Farrow, Anderson, S. C.

9:30 A. M.—Henry F. Bolesta, Tampa, Fla.; Howard H. Beckett, Atlanta, Ga.; Seuddy Horner, Nashville, Tennessee.

9:40 A. M.—Frank Stevenson, Americus, Ga.; Eddie Miller, Gadsden, Ala.

9:50 A. M.—Alex Milner, Jr., LaGrange, Ga.; Tony Penna, Pensacola, Fla.; Arnold Nears, Nashville, Tennessee.

Grady, Calloway, Ramsey Win Matches.

Only three matches were played Sunday on the Capital City Club course in the first round of the national country club trophy tournament.

In the first flight Henry Grady, Jr., defeated Ed Upton, 4-2.

J. M. Calloway defeated Bill H. Adams, 3-2, in the third flight, and W. S. Ramsey defeated Jack Kontz, 2 up, in the fourth flight.

Ingleside Golfers Busy in Tourney.

Seven matches were played Sunday on the Ingleside Country Club course in the first rounds of the annual club favorites with the exception of Monte Forst survived the first round of play.

Frank Forst, former Georgia Tech football star, defeated his brother, 2 up, in a surprise match.

In the other matches, Billy Kingston defeated Robert Schwab, 3-1 up, on the 18th green. Norman Elvas, present champion, defeated Lewis Montag, 4-3, H. H. Hays defeated R. H. Schorn, 2-1; Walter Wolfe, Sr. defeated Edwin Haas, 3-2; Elliott Haas defeated Albert Mayer, 5-4, and Robert Schwab, Jr., defeated Harold Haas, Jr., 5-1.

Atlanta Battalion Reaches Sedgfield.

SEDGFIELD COUNTRY CLUB, BIRMINGHAM, N. C., June 15.—(AP)—Arrival of the Atlanta delegation today marked events leading up to the southern amateur golf tournament which starts Tuesday and continues through the week.

Those coming here from Bobby Jones' home town include Julius Hughes, city champion; Scott Hudson, Jr.; Bertram Moore, Jr.; and Will Dunn, Jr., younger brother of Watts Dunn.

The qualifying round, medal play, will be held Tuesday. Match play starts Wednesday.

Once again, after having its interest directed here, there and yonder to lesser sporting events, George W. Public looks across the seas where Robert Tyre Jones goes over the top of the Hoylake course in his second British offensive.

It is with some relief and complacency that old George W. turns toward the British open championship and the fortunes of Bobby Jones, Horton Smith and other American representatives. After following the build up, the final ballyhoo and the sour contest that resulted in the transfer of the world's championship in boxing from a state of suspension in mid-air to the custody of a nice German boy, the big golf tournament comes as a refreshing picture.

Bobby Jones cannot win the British open title on a foul nor can he lose his chance to win it. The racketeer, the fixer, the custom of snarling whispering from the lower corner of the mouth, is unknown in golf.

From the steel and concrete canyons of New York to the Spanish stucco villas of California, folks are wondering whether Bobby Jones will win the British open title for the third time.

Those who talk golf agree he has the game to win, but they question whether he has the will to win. This questioning of Bobby's mental attitude was inspired by statements of his after winning the British amateur title, the one unfulfilled ambition of his life and the main incentive in his current invasion.

After he had completed conquest of the amateur the tired golfer declared that he was happy to win and that nothing else mattered. That was interpreted in many quarters to mean that he would not get excited over the British open nor any other golf tournament again. There is absolutely no chance that Bobby will take the British open tournament casually. The competitive instinct is too warm in his spirit. He could not take any major golf tournament any way but seriously.

Many believe that the victory in the British amateur championship a few weeks ago will spur him to his very best effort in the open this week. There has been so much speculation as to whether he could win the four big ones that echoes must have reached his ears. Bobby has had relaxation in sight-seeing among congenial people and he has taken enough practice over Hoylake and Wallasey to have sharpened his weapons. The safest thing to do is to sit back and look for Bobby Jones to play brilliantly. He may not win, of course, but it will not be because he took the contest carelessly.

AN ODD COMMENTARY.

It is an odd commentary on the state of golf in England and America when it is noted that experts say the two most likely to win are Bobby Jones and Horton Smith, both of whom are "colonists." And those mentioned in the next breath are George Von Elm and Leo Diegel, neither of whom saw England until comparatively recently.

A GOOD SADDLE HORSE.

After being beaten in the Kentucky Derby by Gallant Fox and in the American Derby by a 55-to-1 shot, Tannery might as well realize that racing is just not his game. However, he still has a future in the saddle horse business. He has given Willie Garner a couple of nice, quiet afternoon gallops.

TWO BABIES GOT THE "MILK."

Final checking up on the clabbered Milk Fund fight showed that two babies received $177,000 each and there were $155,000 left to divide among some 50,000 babies.

The two babies for whose special benefit the fight was given, have their money in hand. One of them, Sharkey, had his before the fight started. The other babies will have to have their mothers stand in line to get their share.

If Schmeling and Sharkey were sportsmen, and not business men, they would stage the fight all over again free of charge and give all the proceeds to those East Side babies. But, then, if they did, their half-world would call them insane and probably have them committed for it.

ADD ENFORCEMENT PROBLEMS.

There is a new law in New York state which penalizes a fighter a prorata of his earnings if he fouls another. Under this law Sharkey would have collected only about $45,000 by that fourth-round foul blow.

But Sharkey had it written into the contract that the new law would not apply and that he would be paid regardless of the outcome. And he got his money before the fight. No wonder he could afford to be careless with his left hand.

The law, if enforced positively, would stop fouling. Threaten a boxer's money and he will do anything to save it.

ASK THEM ABOUT THE FOUL.

Quite a pilgrimage of Georgians came back on the comfortable Crescent Limited from New York yesterday. By a strange coincidence or something a convention of bankers and a convention of doctors was held in the big city the same week of the fight. And oddly enough there were seats enough to go all around.

Taken by and large, the fight for the benefit of the German and Lithuanian babies was witnessed by a record Georgia delegation.

Among the Georgians present and returning yesterday were J. S. Kennedy, J. D. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, Ralph DeLoach, "Stick" Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hightower, Joe Murphy, Dr. Ballenger, Haynes McFadden, Charles Tillman, Roger Reynolds, R. J. Dougan. Perhaps one or two more concealed in drawing rooms here and there.

Australians Hold Place in Cup Play

MILAN, Italy, June 15.—(AP)—Australia kept in the running in her Davis cup tennis tie with Italy today by winning the doubles. Harry Hopman and Jim Willard defeated Baron H. L. De Morpurgo and Pietro Gaslini, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Italy now leads, two matches to one, with two single matches to be played tomorrow.

Ohta Beats Kozeluh To Even Cup Series

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 15.—(AP)—Yoshio Ohta, of Japan, defeated Jan Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, in the second singles match of a semi-final round Davis cup tennis tie today. Ohta won the match, postponed yesterday after three sets had been played, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. This victory left the two countries tied at one triumph each.

ROBINS FLASH FINE DEFENSE TO HOLD LEAD

Strong Field Expected To Take Courts in Tournament.

By Orlo Robertson, Associated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins, heretofore considered only as a powerful offensive team, gave the baseball goers something else to talk about last week as they compiled a record of four victories and one defeat with only 22 runs to keep their place at the top of the National league standings.

With their pitchers holding the opposition to 16 runs—the lowest in either of the major leagues—the Robins made every one of their 46 hits count to top the senior circuit in games won and lost during the week ending Tuesday.

BRAVES SECOND.

Rising from no place in particular, the lowly Boston Braves gave the Robins a battle for the leadership as they won three of their four games. The Braves also scored 22 runs while holding their rivals to 16, but their per game record failed to equal the brilliant defensive work of the league leaders, as they took part in one less contest.

Although only breaking even in their eight games, the Phillies continued their powerful work at the plate, going out 99 hits to lead the circuit in that division.

If runs scored by the opponents are any criterion, then the Pittsburgh Pirates were the weakest team defensively. Fifty runs were scored against the Pirates as they dropped four of their six games. The St. Louis Cardinals scored the least number of runs, 16, in the league, although holding their opponents to 20.

PITCHERS GOOD.

In accord with their climb to the honor position in the American league, the Cleveland Indians piled up the best record for pitchers in the junior circuit with five victories and one defeat. The Indians' pitchers played a prominent role in the Cleveland's 48 runs—second only to the Yankees' 42 as against the junior league's 71.

The Athletics dropped all but two of their seven games, scored the least number of runs, with 21, and gave their opponents 48 runs—second only to Detroit. The Yankees again showed the way in most runs and hits while placing second to the Indians in the league's total offense.

The two leagues wound up the week all square in total home runs, each getting 20, but in total hits the American league ranked first with 505 to 448. In errors the National circuit held the advantage, however, committing only 42 as against the junior league's 71.

Last week's major league records follow:

CRACKERS NEAR FIRST DIVISION; AT HOME TODAY

Travelers Here This Afternoon; Memphis Arrives Tuesday.

By Ralph McGill.

It was a very neat scalping which the Chickasaws received Sunday afternoon right in their own village on the bluffs of the old Mississippi.

I refer, of course, to the one given by OUR Crackers, who return home today for the first game of a week's home stay.

OUR Crackers are just the proverbial gnat's whisker out of fifth place, being just one lone percentage point behind Little Rock. Atlanta is .468 and Little Rock .469.

Hence even the most erudite among us may see that a victory today will advance the Crackers to fifth place.

They are just a miserable little half game out of fourth place.

It is entirely possible for the Crackers to hop right up into fourth place and the first division.

The Barons have only to lose while the Crackers win today for that to happen.

And they are but a game and a half out of third place.

Yes sir, it is the Atlanta Crackers we speak of, they are just in that sort of a position. Yes sir, OUR Crackers.

The Little Rock Travelers are here today, for some reason or other, and they will be replaced on Tuesday by Chief Doc Prothro, a good old Indian chief, who is boss of the Chickasaws.

If there is any scalp left the Crackers intend to have the rest of it in the five games scheduled for Spiller park.

SETTING FACE.

Because those Crackers are setting the pace right now even though they are still battling around in sixth place. They are destined for higher things. Yes, sir, Bob, they are.

Nashville staged the most runs last week because they were playing the Mobile Bears, their cousins. And the Bears dropped the games with something like 48 runs scored against them.

Mobile was a very lenient club last week, giving up 73 runs in all. Nashville, big-hearted, took only 48 as theirs.

The Crackers, playing real baseball opponents, and not a collection of baseball misfits and baseball clowns such as Jimmy Hamilton has gathered together, scored 53 runs. Memphis and Chattanooga were a few runs ahead but all three were well-bunched in scoring runs.

SI LEADS THEM.

The Crackers, led by Si Rosenthal, got ten more runs than last week. They slipped out 108 safe hits which was 10 more than Chattanooga made.

In nine games played the Crackers have been dropping but two to the foe. For three weeks the Crackers have played real baseball.

Six men in the regular lineup are batting better than .300. Si Rosenthal, in fourth, is batting .333. Ed Diehl, in fifth, is batting .333. And Sam Langford is sure to find himself and move up into the select circles. Jimmy Johnson will get there this week.

MORE ALERT.

The Crackers are more alert, hitting harder and playing smarter defensive baseball. Luke Appling remains the sensation. He is making a few errors, but he is stepped right into regulation position and held a 300 batting mark and fields well enough despite the occasional errors that creep in. They will be smoothed out. When one considers that he is but a few weeks out of college and playing his first professional ball, his performance becomes all the more remarkable.

New Cracker Pitcher

Paul Gregory, latest addition to the Cracker squad, is a pitcher from Mississippi A. & M. college at Starkville. He was one of the best pitchers in southern collegiate ranks this past spring and is expected to stick with the Crackers. Dobbs plans to use him in the box this week during the home stay.

COTTON PRICES SHOW

HUGE LOSS FOR WEEK

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—

The main feature of the cotton market during the past week has been the drastic liquidation of the July option. The approach of the first notice day on June 25, generally favorable weather in the cotton belt, and good crop reports were the assigned incentives for selling July. Whatever the cause, July was sold persistently and as a result the price of that delivery declined from a high of 15.21 on Monday to a low of 13.56 on Friday, a decline of 1.65 points, or $2.25 a bale.

In the meantime October and other new crop months also declined, but not nearly so much as July. October, for instance, dropped from a high on Monday of 14.04 to a low on Friday of 12.21, a little over $1.80 a bale.

As a result of the greater weakness in July than in October, the premium of the near month over the full month, which a week ago was 121 points, shrunk to 34 points. The sharp decline in stocks and wheat undoubtedly helped the decline in cotton prices, but it is probable that the main cause of the liquidation was the generally favorable views entertained of the weather and the prevailing belief among traders that the crop was making good progress and that the weather would be favorable for the remainder of the season.

The sharp decline in stocks and wheat undoubtedly helped the decline in cotton prices, but it is probable that the main cause of the liquidation was the generally favorable views entertained of the weather and the prevailing belief among traders that the crop was making good progress and that the weather would be favorable for the remainder of the season.

Another disconcerting development was renewed weakness in copper. Copper metal prices were cut from 13 to 12 cents a pound by some smelters, although some of the larger producers failed to follow this drop all the way down. Export copper was reduced from 13.30 cents a pound to 12.55 cents. These new reductions practically canceled the rebound which occurred after copper dropped from 13 to 12 cents.

Steel production dropped from 72 per cent of capacity during the previous week to 69 per cent. U. S. Steel's unfilled orders, as announced for the end of May, showed a reduction of approximately 285,000 tons, but this was regarded as purely a seasonal decline.

Business Recession Nears Completion of Average Span

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—

Reports from business and trade during the past week were on the whole disappointing, but the knowledge that the current recession has now very nearly completed the average cycle of the recessions of the past 30 years, was widely regarded as reassuring.

Industrial activity slackened further, and further weakness of commodity prices appeared. Wall Street turned pessimistic and the stock market went into a protracted decline, more than 150 issues reaching new low prices for the year.

Passage of the tariff measure by the senate late in the week apparently removed one point of uncertainty over which manufacturers have been complaining for some time, but sentiment as to the effects of the tariff upon business was decidedly mixed.

Several dividend reductions or omissions, largely by minor companies, were announced, but it was pointed out that dividends, on the whole, reflect past business rather than future, and are usually curtailed toward the end of a recession, while they reach top levels often after a recession has definitely started.

Unsettlement of commodity prices remained one of the chief obstacles to recovery, and was in part in sympathy with the stock market. Cotton dropped to new low levels for the season at the end of the week, all points going below 14 cents a pound, reflecting the May consumption figures. July wheat tumbled below 11 a bushel.

Another disconcerting development was renewed weakness in copper. Copper metal prices were cut from 13 to 12 cents a pound by some smelters, although some of the larger producers failed to follow this drop all the way down. Export copper was reduced from 13.30 cents a pound to 12.55 cents. These new reductions practically canceled the rebound which occurred after copper dropped from 13 to 12 cents.

Steel production dropped from 72 per cent of capacity during the previous week to 69 per cent. U. S. Steel's unfilled orders, as announced for the end of May, showed a reduction of approximately 285,000 tons, but this was regarded as purely a seasonal decline.

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Negotiations with the Greek government for a $1,500,000 short-term advance have been closed by J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City Co., and J. & W. Seligman & Co. The bankers have bought one-year 5 per cent secured treasury notes of the Greek government due May 5, 1937.

These notes are secured by pledge of bonds of the Greek government 5 per cent loan of 1914, the value of which at the current price is $10,172,000. The notes will be placed privately and no public offering is contemplated.

Fox Film Corporation announced today that by January 1, all of its production efforts will be concentrated at Movietone City, near Beverly Hills, Cal., and by that time the plant will represent an investment of $25,000,000, including $5,000,000 which is to be spent in the next six months for 38 new buildings and equipment.

Atlanta Wrecking Co. Reports on Business

R. Scheek, proprietor of the Atlanta Wrecking Company, 319 Walker street, S. W., reports that business has been good in the new and second-hand building material lines during the past 60 days.

This firm has a very large warehouse and yards, well stocked with scores of articles used in all types of building, doing a big volume among those who have small repairs to make or buildings to build.

People desiring to add a room or summer kitchen, a garage or a summer camp building, can find nearly everything necessary at this place, and can buy as little or as much as they like, from one board to a truck load.

The company has in addition to old material from wrecked buildings, great quantities of left-over new materials. It is not an uncommon thing to receive a carload of windows and doors, and at this time there are in stock dozens of new windows and doors.

Roll roofing, shingles, and paints are also stocked in large quantities, as well as various kinds of framing, weatherboards, ceiling, flooring, and finishing lumber. Other building materials available include "dumpling" supplies, from small fittings and pipes to elaborate bath tubs and lavatories; fire grates, tiles, beaverboard, brick, stone, nails, marble slabs, ridge rolls, galvanized sheets and pipes, hardware and glass.

W. O. Pierce Dairy Ranks Among Largest in State

The W. O. Pierce Dairy, near Chamblee, Ga., has one of the largest herds in Georgia, 100 milking cows and more than 100 yearlings and calves.

The cows are fed, milked and cared for with the utmost care. The herd consists mostly of Holsteins and Jerseys, and they are housed in large, white brick barns with well-drained cement floors.

The water is of the best, coming from a five-hundred-foot well, a compressed air pump puts plenty of force back of the water at all times. The Pierce Dairy has its own plant and cooling pipes wherever needed, and the care given the milk is all that the most particular housewife or health inspector could ask.

The men milking wear white duck uniforms. As soon as the cow is milked the first thing they do is to weigh it and record it on a daily chart. This enables them to know what amount of milk each cow gives over any period. If one falls below her average, the cause is looked into and away, and the proper remedy applied or the cow replaced.

The milk, while still warm, is poured into large elevated cans and then runs over some concealed cold pipes, quickly bringing the temperature down to 36-38 degrees. It then runs into a small bottling machine. The bottles, 8 at a time, are quickly filled and automatically capped. The bottles are therefore filled and capped without the milk or caps being touched by hands.

This dairy, as an extra precaution to safeguard its milk while in transit or in the ice boxes of customers, puts an extra food cap down about an inch all around the neck of the bottle. The delivering of the milk from the dairy is a matter in which the proprietor and his large organization of nearly 30 people take pride.

The night milk, upon being taken from the ice cooling room, is the first to be delivered, beginning at 8:30 every morning, and by the time the seven early drivers cover the north side and Decatur, the morning milk is brought in by a big supply truck that replenishes each delivery truck with more milk. In this way the milk is not carried two or three hours before delivery.

The strangers in approaching the large dairy barns of the W. O. Pierce Dairy are in doubt at first about it being a dairy farm, for the front entrance with their many large flower beds presents more the appearance of a nursery than a dairy.

For the Allied Van Lines an organization of nation-wide movers of household goods, whose responsibility is backed by more than 800 of the foremost warehousemen in America.

The Zaban company is equipped with large, water-tight moving vans to move household goods up to four and five hundred miles in any direction from Atlanta, and where the furniture goes farther than that, it is transferred to another responsible dependable company that operates in the territory concerned.

The company features an office moving service for either day or night. It operates a number of large vans and with experienced moving men, they can move the contents of one or more offices in a very short time.

Due to close co-operation with real estate men, the firm is in a position to aid anyone in locating a new home or apartment, appealing especially to those that are unfamiliar with Atlanta.

An organization with more than 40 years behind it, the M. D. Smith Tent & Awning Company, recently added window shades to its other lines, and announces the same service in quality and workmanship will be given on all kinds of window shades as it has been rendering on tents and awnings all these years.

As the organization had the equipment and resources, the M. D. Smith Company began making and installing window shades under favorable circumstances, having put in a large variety of fancy and standard patterns in shade cloths.

The firm is showing some beautiful new patterns in plain and washable window cloths, and is prepared to handle orders of any size. Many of the new patterns would lend an air of refinement to a room.

In the matter of quick service this firm has always been noted for prompt work, maintaining reserve stocks and men to meet all emergencies. This also applies to new and second-hand tents. All sizes and shapes are sold and rented.

This is the busy season in the awning business and the company has a wide variety of patterns in stock.

Clio, Alabama, Hit By $100,000 Fire

CLIO, Ala., June 15.—An explosion which alarmed the community for miles was followed by fire here this morning which destroyed an entire block in the business section with less running to more than $100,000. The explosion occurred in the store of the Craven & English Mercantile Company.

Blowdowns placed on the trail of a person seen to leave the building a few moments after the blast, went direct to the home of Thomas Craven, one of the proprietors. Craven was arrested by investigating officers.

Plate glass in many of the stores in the business section were broken by the blast. Residents of Louisville, Ala., six miles from Clio, rushed by the explosion hurried to the little town but the flames had gained such headway, volunteer fire fighters were unable to cope with them.

When Miss Jessie Davidson, one of the officers at the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, went out Sunday afternoon with a companion, Carl Black, to make some pictures at the rear of her home at 221 McKenzie avenue, she espied a big swarm of bees clinging to the limb of a tree. With the help of Mr. Black, and to the entertainment of a crowd which quickly gathered, she hastily improved an apiary and enticed the bees into it.

Mr. Black, Miss Davidson and the bees were all doing well Sunday night.

Loss Is Reduced In Auto Wrecks

A few years ago if a person wanted a wrecked or burned car put back in good order it was necessary to take it to four or five different shops to have the work done, and this meant excessive costs and the loss of much time without the use of the car.

With several firms like the Charles A. Hubbard Top Company, of 24 Piedmont avenue, N. E., doing all the work under one roof, the cost of replacing and rebuilding the broken or burned parts of a car is very much less, and the time required to do the job is cut down several days. The main reason for this is the job does not go through so many hands and is not moved or towed from place to place.

The Charles A. Hubbard Company specializes in rebuilding all kinds of wrecked, burned or worn out bodies on cars. It replaces the broken, rotted or burned wood work, straightens bent fenders, and dents in all parts of the body.

One department does top work, upholstery and seat covers, work being done on the inside as well as the outside of cars, and the upholstery is especially good.

This firm makes special arrangements with garages not equipped to do body and top work.

Officer's Brother Is Slashed in Fight

Joe L. Ivey, 38, Fulton county truck driver, living at 706 Addie street, and a brother of Patrolman S. Ivey, was seriously cut about the right cheek and face early Sunday night after a quarrel with J. W. (Snap) Dorsey, of 806 Pelham street.

Ivey was rushed to Georgia Baptist hospital but was unable to make any statement to officers investigating the fight. Dorsey, who surrendered to police shortly after the cutting, exhibited a cut about his left arm and said that Ivey started the knife battle, which took place at Lindsay street and Bankhead avenue. Dorsey was locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR No. 79

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The ape watched his opportunity; soon it came. Feeling safe within his thorny enclosure, Mugambi went to stretch himself in the shade of his shelter during the heat of the day and sleep in peaceful security until the declining sun carried with it the enervating temperature of midday. Watching from above, Chulk saw the black warrior stretched thus in the unconsciousness of sleep one sultry afternoon. Creeping out from an overhanging branch, the anthropoid dropped to the ground within the boma.

He approached the sleeper upon padded feet which gave no sound, and with an uncanny woodcraft that rustled not a leaf or a grass blade. Pausing beside the man, the ape bent over and examined his belongings. Great as was the strength of Chulk, there lay in the back of his little brain something which deterred him from arousing the man to combat—a strange fear of man that rules even the most powerful of the jungle creatures at times. Beside the sleeping black lay his knobstick and the pouch. These Chulk grabbed.

Then he retreated with haste to the safety of the tree from which he had dropped and fled through the jungle. . . . It was sometime after Mugambi awoke that he missed the pouch. Instantly he was all excitement. What could have become of it? He was sure it had been there—that precious pouch—when he had laid down to sleep. How then had it vanished? Mugambi's savage imagination began to get busy; perhaps the spirit of some departed enemy had taken it! Then he missed his knobstick and began a careful investigation.

In the trampled turf beside him was the faint imprint of huge, manlike feet. Mugambi raised his brows as the truth dawned upon him. Hastily leaving his boma, he searched in all directions for some further sign of the tell-tale spoor. He climbed trees and searched for evidence of the direction of the thief's flight; but the faint signs left by a wary ape who elicits to travel through the trees seemed the woodcraft of Mugambi. Tarzan might have followed them; but no ordinary mortal could perceive them, or, perceiving, translate.

Austrian Government Exiles Fascist Leader

VIENNA, June 15.—(P)—The order expelling Major Waldemar Pabst, leader in the Austrian fascist movement, from Austria, caused a great sensation throughout the nation today.

The police took strict precautionary measures to prevent demonstrations. Public buildings were heavily guarded.

Major Pabst, a German citizen who was a leader in the Kapp revolt that overthrew the Ebert government in Germany in 1920, remained in police custody today.

He will be allowed to choose the point at which he wishes to be sent across the frontier.
